With Russia and Ukraine holding on to the ceasefire, the window for more humanitarian corridors to evacuate frightened people opened but new concerns also emerged. Ukraine said power has been cut to Chernobyl, site of the world's worst nuclear disaster in 1986. However, no radiation leakage was reported.

On Wednesday, Ukraine accused Russia of bombing a maternity hospital in Mariupol. The attack injured 17 people while many more are feared buried under rubble, said local officials. Russia, however, denied targeting the hospital.

As for Kyiv, a fierce battle may be in the offing with Russian troops closing in and armed residents vowing to defend it. A Russian military column has reached a village on the outskirts of the capital, AFP reported. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said efforts are on to evacuate 18,000 people from the city. Zelenskyy, who reportedly offered to drop the plan to join NATO in a bid to placate Moscow, hardened his posture on Wednesday. "We will not surrender... will fight until we can win back our land. You can still save yourselves if you just go home," he said in Russian language.

Meanwhile, Poland offered to supply Ukraine with fighter jets via US-led NATO, but Washington rejected it.

POWER-PACKED speeches keeping attendees on the edge of their seats marked Day Two of the 10th edition of the ThinkEdu Conclave, organised by TNIE, on Wednesday. It began with the Kerala Governor's address, and concluded with the gritty and graceful story of motivational speaker Malvika Iyer.

"There is no (hijab) controversy; this is a conspiracy," said Kerala Governor Arif Mohammed Khan, while inaugurating the second day of the conclave. The event, which went hybrid this year, was a huge success with over 200 participants joining online and 359 students and delegates attending in person.

Poaching headache ahead of poll results

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi/Lucknow/Panaji

WITH results of Assembly elections to five states set to be out on Thursday, parties are preparing to deal with various post-poll scenarios, including possible poaching attempts by rivals.

In Goa, the Congress has moved all its 37 candidates to an undisclosed location in the state's south. The party has charged the president of its Karnataka unit, DK Shivakumar, to ensure that all its elected members stay united and in one place. "We have learned a lot from the 2017 fiasco. We do not want to repeat it. We wanted to be doubly sure, therefore, all precautionary measures have been taken by shifting all 37 candidates to a resort. Their location has not been shared with anyone," said a senior Congress leader. "All candidates will stay together in the common venue in the spirit of camaraderie and ward off the dirty politics of the BJP," he said.

In Uttarakhand, the ruling BJP began fielding its leaders to deal with a situation wherein the party is short of majority. Meanwhile, the Congress has sent a dozen leaders to counter any attempts by the saffron camp to poach its MLAs as well as independent candidates. "We are ready to counter any mischievous move by the BJP," a Congress leader said.

In Uttar Pradesh, three officials were removed from election duty on Wednesday, a day after the Samajwadi Party alleged electronic voting machines were being shifted in an unauthorised manner.

Passenger of stalled train run over by Shatabdi Exp

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A 24-year-old call centre employee, who had trespassed on the railway tracks near Tyakal station in Kolar, about 60 km from Bengaluru, was run over by a speeding Shatabdi Express heading to Chennai at 8.38 am on Wednesday. The incident was a tragic outcome of power failure which had resulted in some electric trains being stalled.

The Kolar-Bengaluru Cantonment DEMU, in which Shabaz Ahmad Sharif was travelling, had halted on the tracks, like many other trains across the city since 5.12 am, and he was standing on the adjoining track along with countless other passengers. The Marikuppam-KSR Bengaluru MEMU was also stranded on another track since 7.25 am.

Garbage burnt near lake irks residents

Allege that Dodda Kudlu Lake is ill-maintained after it has been taken over by the Palike

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

RESIDENTS and morning walkers of Singasandra ward were in for a shock on Tuesday, when they found ash across an acre of land around Hosa Lake, also called as Dodda Kudlu lake.

Locals allege that the lake is not being maintained properly, after it was taken over by the BBMP. Earlier, an NGO was maintaining it and they were ensuring there were no such incidents, the locals accused.

Rashmi Nangia, a resident, said garbage dumping is a major problem near the lake, especially with the area lacking fencing. Even as many complaints are raised in the ward committee meetings, little has been done. At every complaint, the marshals come and inspect the area.

Some locals also said that a similar incident of garbage burning had occurred three days back in the same lake, and even then the BBMP officials did not take any action.

Earlier, when TNIE contacted BBMP officials, they stated that the fire started from a vacant site near an apartment complex, but later as the day progressed they mentioned that someone from a nearby slum had thrown a burning cigarette butt on dry leaves, which caught fire. "By the time staffers and workers could bring water, the flames spread, gutting an acre of land late on Monday night. Nothing has happened to the lake," they added.

As the Forest and Lakes Division in the BBMP head office have sought for a detailed report on the incident, locals questioned how permission was given for setting up a garbage dump yard and a waste segregation unit on the lake bed. They pointed out that these centres should be set up on vacant government lands and lake buffer zones should be well protected.

Citizens want Cubbon Park to be silent zone

ENS @Bengaluru

BENGALUREANS and members of Citizens for Citizens (C4C) have urged the State Government and Traffic Police to notify Cubbon Park as a 'No Honking Zone'.

The members of C4C also submitted a written request to the traffic police, but the officials have responded saying that the decision will take time, since the Bengaluru Smart City Limited is undertaking repair and construction work at Cubbon park and Bal Bhavan at the moment.

Meanwhile, the move has also got the support of many morning and evening walkers, environment support groups and pet lover organisations. C4C members have reasoned that Cubbon Park is a prime lung space in the city, home to a sensitive biodiversity, which needs to be protected. "Honking is a major source of noise pollution in Bengaluru. It is sad to observe the kind of honking prevalent everywhere, and when this happens inside the park, where a variety of flora and fauna live, and where citizens come for some peace, the cacophony of loud and irresponsible honking is a huge distraction and deterrent. This is noticeable all along the approximately 5 km of traffic-bearing roads inside Cubbon Park and more so at the entry and exit points and junctions inside the park," the members noted.

TBM 'Avni' tunnels below existing Metro line, crosses Cauvery Junction

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

A UNIQUE feat was recorded by the Bengaluru Metro on Wednesday morning, when for the first time, a Tunnel Boring Machine (TBM) successfully drilled below a functioning Metro line. The feat was achieved by 'Avni', when it tunnelled under Cauvery Emporium on MG Road, thereby crossing the Metro alignment of the Purple Line.

On MG Road, the Metro line runs elevated with the road below, and the Undergound MG Road Metro station of the Nagawara-Kalena Agrahara line (Pink Line) will come further below the road.

"On March 4, Avni began tunnelling from the South of MG Road Metro station and it drilled the 35 metres without any major hiccups," a top source said. It had earlier spent 487 days tunnelling from Shivaji Nagar Metro station to MG Road, a 1,086-metre stretch that was completed on January 6.

Much preparation had preceded the successful completion of the exercise. "A special moveable barricade on wheels measuring 8 metres length, by 6 metres width, that can be shifted wherever required was readied. Having seen sink holes in the past during underground tunnelling, we decided to barricade the portion above the stretch being drilled," said a reliable source. "The idea was also to ensure minimum inconvenience to the public by barricading only a small portion," he added. Recently, the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited also erected structures to offer support to the Emporium. In Phase-2, there will only be one more instance when such a tunnelling takes place, when Lavi, the TBM partnering Avni, crosses below the same stretch.

Avni will now proceed on its journey up to Vellara junction.

WHAT CAUSED POWER FAILURE?

An eagle had got electrocuted and was stuck in the overhead electrical equipment at 5.12 am. "Due to this, the entire electrical apparatus in the Bengaluru Division tripped. "The Traction Power Control room gets an alert but someone failed to act on it. The death of the youngster and the chaos in train schedules was due to inaction. There are instances of dead birds affecting train operations, but they impact very few trains as action is generally taken quickly," sources explained.

21 trains delayed for 2 to 3 hours

THE constant blowing of the horn by the Shatabdi Express loco pilot, which was running at 110 kmph, prompted many to run helter skelter to safety, but Shabaz failed to do so.

Another passenger sustained injuries while a woman, who was stunned by the speed and noise of the train, fainted and fell down. It was a miracle that the casualties were not in double digits, as many dashed to safety, said an eyewitness.

Shabaz, a native of Bangarpet, was employed with Vindhya Infotech Solutions at Rajaji Nagar in Bengaluru, his brother Ayan Mohammed told TNIE.

The failure of the overhead equipment, which powers trains, had impacted train operations in and around KSR City Railway Station, Bengaluru, Krishnarajapuram, Yeshwantpur, Yelahanka and Kengeri. A total of 21 trains were delayed for two to three hours, hugely delaying those heading to work. Priority was given for some trains, including the Shatabdi Express, and the electric locos were replaced with diesel ones.

While a source at the spot alleged that Shabaz had his earphones on, and hence could not pay attention to the approaching train, the victim's brother disputed the claim. Ayan told TNIE, "My close friends were also travelling on the train. They said that around 100 passengers were on the tracks when they spotted the Shatabdi approaching. Everyone moved out, but my brother got frightened and could not act quickly. Shabaz does have a set of headphones, but he used it only at nights in the house. Even now, it is in the house."

Angry passengers abused and manhandled station master Raja Babu at Tyakal station for allegedly not alerting the loco pilot of the Shatabdi Express. Bengaluru Divisional Railway Manager Shyam Singh said the power problem was sorted around 9 am. "We are investigating the matter. The loco pilot was whistling hard so that everyone leaves the tracks, according to our station master at Tyakal, but one person failed to do so," he said.

IISc DEVELOPS PAPER SENSOR TO DETECT HYDROGEN PEROXIDE

ENS @Bengaluru

RESEARCHERS from the Department of Organic Chemistry at the IISc have developed a paper-based sensor for detecting tiny volumes of hydrogen peroxide, a chemical used widely in household and healthcare products like hand sanitiser as a disinfectant, in rocket fuel as a propellant, in biological cells, and also as a starting material in peroxide-based explosives.

The low-cost and biodegradable paper sensor could be extensively used in detection of peroxide-based explosives, especially as mixing concentrated hydrogen peroxide and acetone with an acid catalyst is known to form sensitive explosives triacetone triperoxide (TATP) and diacetone diperoxide (DADP). Detecting hydrogen peroxide efficiently is crucial as peroxide-based explosives can be traced using hydrogen peroxide, which is sometimes used as a starting material. Experts explained that although pure hydrogen peroxide solutions are not usually explosive at atmospheric pressure, higher concentrations become explosive in a temperature range just below the boiling point of a liquid medium it is packed in.

The technique used by the IISc researchers involves preparing a gel from a solution containing a specially designed molecule, treated with a liquid that has hydrogen peroxide, and air-drying them on a thin paper disc about 0.45 cm in diameter. The paper disc emits green light when placed under a ultra-violet lamp, only in the presence of hydrogen peroxide. The intensity of the light was found to be directly proportional to the concentration of hydrogen peroxide, an IISc release said. "You can actually visualise this green emission with the naked eye... All you need is a simple UV light source," explains Arnab Dutta, PhD student in the Department of Organic Chemistry and first author of the study titled 'Naked-eye detection of hydrogen peroxide on photoluminescent paper discs', published in the journal ACS Sensors.

Because the paper disc is low-cost, biodegradable and easy to use, it could serve as a powerful tool in low-resource settings, even for testing biological fluids like blood.

PETER VIDAL

10th March : Yesterday I mentioned that Capricorn is a sign of spiritual rebirth. The reason is that in the ancient world people associated it with the transition from darkness to light, pointing to a rise in wisdom and enlightenment. Of course, only some people get to this point, but everyone can be more aware of their place in the universe.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)

Home and family foibles seem to occupy your attention today. Even at work there'll be a sense in which you're part of one big family. This is all very nice, but just remember that close relations are likely to squabble amongst themselves, and that you might get sucked in.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)

People sometimes do the strangest things. Just now it looks very much as if you'll be able to pull off a minor coup in the eccentricity stakes. Do you have enough cheek to get away with it? I think you do, but you'd better be warned that a close partner may have just lost their sense of humour!

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)

You have a great deal of creative energy, which is just as well. You see, if you are to prevent life being any more than a humdrum shuffle from one rut to another, you are going to have to inject some excitement into your routine. And, if you don't do it, then other people will!

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)

You should be aware of the unconscious perspective you are adopting on certain issues. You will gain nothing by burying your head in the sand or ignoring problems in the hope that they'll go away. Perhaps your best move is to get sympathetic relations to rally round.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)

The Moon now edges its way into a very secretive region of your horoscope. You may be subject to certain doubts and suspicions, but all will be revealed if you spend a little time in quiet reflection: the main answers to your current questions lie within.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

You will soon be making an important domestic decision, possibly by next Monday or Tuesday. Events in the lives of people close to you could indirectly affect your future, so keep your antennae up. And remember, the only thing that counts now is the truth.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

It's a fine time for deep inner revelations. You may imagine that you know more than anyone else, especially concerning other people's motivations. However, in the astrological universe all truth is relative, and your ideas may be right for you but not for a partner.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

The great news is that battles at work should now be well in the past. I'd like to look at the long-term though, and remind you that unless you keep a careful check on your ambitions, you will stir up many forgotten and long-buried emotions over the coming months.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

It's surprising how much your attitudes to money are bound up with fears and feelings about emotional security. I told you yesterday how cash complaints could come between you and a colleague or partner. Now is the time to understand why this should be so.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

It looks inevitable that other people will question even plans to which they have already given their consent. Please try to get everything you can out of whatever co-operation is offered and do listen to constructive criticism. After all, it's probably well-meant.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

Life seems to be dominated by those two old perennials, work and money. There's little else to say beyond the fact that it's a day to do your duty and put survival and security first. You're still keeping your deepest desires to yourself, and there's nothing wrong with enjoying your day-dreams.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

Your faith, generosity and nobility of spirit are legendary, but there are people who see you as nothing more than a weed to be trodden into the ground. How surprised they will be when their little plans backfire! There is not much that can really trouble you.

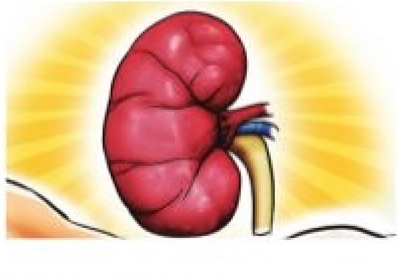
Nephrologists point to rising paediatric cases

If identified early, kids can be saved from undergoing trauma

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru



WITH the number of kidney-related ailments among children on the rise in the state, doctors demand focus on paediatric nephrology cases. Experts claim that early detection is the key and as long as the state doesn't spread awareness on this, the situation may get worse.For instance, Bengaluru's tertiary care Indira Gandhi Institute of Child Health (IGICH) gets around 2,000 paediatric kidney-related outpatient cases in a year, of which at least 500 require admission. Around 45 come to hospital at stage 5, when their kidneys are completely damaged.

"We definitely need to focus on kidney ailments in children. While disease burden in adults has gone up, the same has happened in paediatric cases too. If the ailment is identified early, children can be saved from going through trauma and endless wait for donors to transplant kidneys," said Dr Rajeshwari M, MBBS, MD (Paediatric), DM (Paediatric Nephrology), and Assistant Professor in Paediatric Nephrology at IGICH.

Interestingly, she is the only highly-qualified paediatric nephrologist in the state. Doctors indicate the need to ensure that more doctors specialise in this stream. They say the state requires more medical institutions and specialised centres to address the problem.

A senior health official admitted there is an increase in the number of children with kidney ailments, especially in rural areas and from the lower strata, but the state is yet to prepare statistics on this.

Dr Rajeshwari explains that in a majority of children, a lack of awareness results in delay in identification of symptoms like stunted growth, anaemia, bony deformities etc, and they reach doctors only in the later stages.

Dr Mohan Keshavmurthy, Director, Department of Urology, Fortis Hospital said, "Relevant investigation is essential to diagnose kidney diseases in the paediatric age group. Swelling of face, inadequate growth, family history of kidney disease or renal failure should raise the red flag. In a month, we see 20 patients with kidney disease and three or four patients with renal failure," he said.

Doctors say that repeated urine infections in boys and girls need to be evaluated. "There is a fear among people to visit nephrologists. This has to go," Dr Rajeshwari adds.

WAITING FOR DONORS

Stage 5 cases need long-term dialysis and kidney transplant, and often, the donor is the mother or her parents, or father or his parents. But in cases where the parents' blood group doesn't match or they are unfit to be donors, Jeevasarthakathe, , a body appointed by the State government to oversee implementation of the Transplantation of Human Organs Act of 1994, puts them on the waiting list.

HC sets aside criminal case against Mayawati, BSP leader

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Wednesday set aside criminal proceedings against former Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister and Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) president Mayawati and the then party national general secretary and MP Sathish Chandra Mishra based on an FIR registered by the state police during the 2013 Assembly elections.

In view of the Election Commission of India (ECI) accepting the explanation offered by Mayawati and Mishra, and also, as the FIR was registered only on the basis of information received from a polling official instead of a written complaint as required under CrPC, Justice S Sunil Dutt Yadav set aside the criminal proceedings pending before the Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate in Bengaluru.

The Jewargi police in Kalaburagi district had registered an FIR against them following information received by the polling official on April 27, 2013 with regard to alleged offences under Sections 353, 188 read with Section 34 of the IPC. Later, the case was transferred to a special court in Bengaluru, dealing with cases against elected representatives.

A complaint was registered against Mayawati and Mishra after she snatched her handbag when polling officials went to the venue of a meeting to search the bag containing Rs 1 lakh cash.

Mayawati explained to the ECI that Rs 50,000 was in her possession and the remaining amount belonged to her party General Secretary and there was no seizure of cash by the checking team.

UKRAINE CRISIS MAY HIT EDIBLE OIL IMPORTS: FM

India looking at other sources, says Nirmala, adds Union govt is encouraging palm, groundnut and sesame cultivation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman says the Indian government is closely watching the developments following the full-blown war in Ukraine

UNION Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday said the Russia-Ukraine war will impact edible oil imports to some extent and India is already looking at other alternatives to import it.

"Sunflower oil is imported to India from Ukraine, which is a large producer of sunflower oil. So edible oil supply will be affected to some extent," the minister told the media in Bengaluru.

Stating that the Union Government is already looking at other alternatives to import edible oil, the minister said they are looking at various other places from where any other edible oil, if not sunflower oil, that can be used in India and can be imported. "Edible oil is also going to be an area in which we may have challenges and see how we can address it," she elaborated.

In the long run, to reduce India's dependence on other countries for importing edible oil, the Centre is encouraging the cultivation of palm, groundnut and sesame. Sitharaman said they are supporting farmers taking up palm cultivation in the north east. However, the problem with palm cultivation is that it will take six years to bear fruit and farmers will have to be supported through that period.

On the impact of Ukraine crisis on crude oil prices, the Finance Minister said they are watching the developments post the full-blown war. "Global oil supplies and other indicators are going much higher than what was expected, but we have to see and also identify if there are ways in which we will be able to procure additional quantities. We have to see how it goes and how we can handle it," she added.

'GST relief cess extended to repay loans'

BENGALURU: Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday said the Goods & Services Tax (GST) compensation cess has been extended up to March 2026 to repay loans taken for the states to overcome the shortfall in GST compensation during 2020-2021. "The GST council has extended the compensation cess to up to March 2026 for paying the loans which were taken for all the states in 2020 for the compensation which could not be paid that year and somewhat paid in 2021," she said responding to a question on Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's request to extend the GST compensation to the states at least for another three years. The GST council had decided that the Centre would borrow back-to-back and pay compensations to the states. The loan together with the interest itself required that the compensation cess be extended till March 2026, she explained. Many states, including Karnataka, are demanding an extension of GST compensation as the window ends in June 2022.

AS the countdown begins for the assembly results on Thursday, political parties in Goa are fiercely guarding their potential winning candidates from covetous poachers. With a hung assembly looking imminent, the Congress moved its candidates to a resort in Madgaon on Wednesday, while AAP herded its flock to an unknown "safe location".

To avoid a repeat of 2017 — when a large group of Congress legislators defected to the BJP despite the party emerging as the single largest — the Congress has rushed a team headed by P Chidambaram, D K Shivakumar, Satish Jarkiholi, Dinesh Gundurao and Sunil Kedar to Goa to keep its flock together.

According to sources, the Congress is likely to herd its winning legislators to Rajasthan if there is a hung assembly, and the BJP falls short of a majority. However, KPCC Working President Satish Jarkiholi said the Congress will get a majority and form the government on its own.

On his arrival in Goa, Jarkiholi said the party sent a team of top leaders to Goa to work out strategies to help the Congress form the government in case of a hung assembly.

Goa Pradesh Congress Committee (GPCC) President Girish Chodankar said his party was in talks with AAP and MGP, and that AAP had made it clear it would not support the BJP under any circumstances. "The BJP may resort to poaching of Congress MLAs only if it falls way short of a majority. It is confident of getting the support of five to six MLAs, mainly Independents and MGP. Although BJP calls MGP a natural ally, the MGP is yet to clarify its stand on a possible post-poll alliance,'' said senior journalist Kishor Naik Gaonkar.

BJP's election in-charge of Goa Devendra Fadnavis said the BJP would get a majority on its own but would include MLAs of other parties in the government any way. Chief Minister Pramod Sawant went a step further, claiming his party would get the numbers on its own and a meeting had been fixed at 4pm on Thursday at the party office in Panaji.

Despite the BJP leadership's repeated claims that MGP would ally with it, MGP chief Sudhin Dhavalikar told a section of media on Wednesday that he would not support a Pramod Sawant-led BJP in Goa, as it had not only "bought" the MGP MLAs but also sacked him (Dhavalikar) from the cabinet in 2019 without reason.

Regional parties and potential Independent MLAs have kept both the BJP and Congress on tenterhooks in Goa and are waiting for the results before calling the shots.

Today's results could impact K'taka polls

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

THE assembly election results of Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand, Manipur, Punjab and Goa are likely to have an impact on Karnataka, with a growing buzz that the southern state will go in for early polls with Gujarat in December 2022.

While this depends on how the BJP performs on Thursday, some party leaders rule out such a scenario. "The Bommai government will be completing its term just three or four months later, in 2023. So going for snap polls with Gujarat doesn't help much. If our party wins in these five states, it will be the same in Karnataka later," remarked a leader. Though another leader suggested that the hijab issue, murder of Bajrang Dal activist in Shivamogga and the government's achievements can be encashed if early polls are held.

The BJP's election strategy has been aggressive campaigning by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah, with their cabinet colleagues being given charge of the states. The BJP is likely to adopt a similar strategy for other states too.

If the party manages to win a state or two with considerable seats, and improve its tally from previous elections, it may work against former chief minister B S Yediyurappa and his camp in Karnataka, a leader observed.

If the Congress' performance in the five states remains poor, it may spell doom for the party's unity even in Karnataka, with internal bickering.

Will appeal to CJI to admit our case against river-linking projects: Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LAW and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy on Wednesday reiterated that the Karnataka government has objected to the river-linking projects in toto as the state is going to lose its share of water.

"As two of the judges did not admit our case, we are likely to approach the registrar of the Supreme Court and in turn, the Chief Justice," he stated.

Replying to JDS leader and former chief minister H D Kumaraswamy, who said if the river-linking projects in both the phases is implemented, the state will lose its share of water, the law minister clarified that the state had objected to the linking of Godavari with Karnataka rivers.

"Myself, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol held consultation with our advocates and told them to raise the objection in the Supreme Court," he stated.

He also clarified that Karnataka has also raised objection to the Vaigai project linking to the Cauvery river on the grounds that the Tamil Nadu has been opposing the Mekedatu project.

Earlier, Kumaraswamy, while initiating a debate on the state budget, said the State Government is not bound to talk to Tamil Nadu for the implementation of the Mekedatu dam project.

"All we need is the environmental clearance from the Union Ministry of Forests and Climate Change. There is no legal hurdles for the project, and it requires serious efforts from the government," he told the Assembly.

He also indirectly taunted the Congress, saying it needs the government's effort and the party's recent padayatra seeking implementation of the project will not lead to the construction of the Mekedatu reservoir. "Where was your (Congress) conscience when they beat up farmers in Hubballi-Dharwad during the Mahadayi protest in 2017. Why didn't you hold a Namma Neeru Namma Hakku (our water, our rights) protest. Why now?" he said.

Skipping sessions not right: Speaker

BENGALURU: Assembly Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri on Wednesday took ministers and legislators to task for not being "attentive" during discussions and being absent from sessions. When Sringeri MLA Rajegowda T D sought a reply from Sports Minister K C Narayana Gowda during the question hour, the minister was not present in the house. Irked over this, the speaker said ministers staying absent from the house are not acceptable. Every day, a list of ministers, who are to attend the Assembly and Council, is put out. This should be followed and ministers should be present to answer questions from legislators, Kageri said. MLAs cutting across party lines also objected to legislators staying absent. BJP MLA Basanagouda Patil said on one side some legislators lobby to become ministers, but when they do, they fail to come to the house. "Why should they lobby when they cannot attend the proceeding?" he asked.

Gadag youth back home, recalls 15-km treacherous walk

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR@Gadag

A youth from Gadag, who was stranded in war-torn Ukraine, returned home on Wednesday morning. Akash Policepatil and other students walked 15 km from Kharkiv to a nearby village where they spent four days waiting for a bus.

The Ukraine government had urged people to leave Kharkiv as early as possible. The students were told to walk 15 km to a nearby village -- Pisochyn. They spent four days waiting for a bus there, and finally caught one on Saturday and left Ukraine.

Akash said, "We saw bombs falling some kilometres away from where we were. It was a very hard time for. While walking to Pisochyn, sometimes we had to run inside metro stations due to shelling. We took more than five hours to reach 15 km. Finally we are happy, we came back".

No state politics for now, says Sumalatha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mysuru

MANDYA MP Sumalatha Ambareesh has ruled out entering state politics and said she has not thought of joining any political party.

The MP said the Lok Sabha elections are two years away and she will take a call during the time of the election.

The veteran actor said it is for her son Abhishek to decide on entering politics and maintained that he does not discuss with her either his films or his interest in politics.

Asked about the credit war between her and JDS MLAs for the works to be carried out in Mandya, she said it all started after the Lok Sabha election, with local MLAs targeting her involvement in politicking.

"I am not bothered. I am not against them taking credit if they contributed to development works. But it is unfortunate that they are taking credit for all good deeds of mine," she said.

Raghavendra's new movie to feature native village

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

THE native village of Kannada matinee idol late Dr Rajkumar, Gajanur, will feature in Raghavendra Rajkumar's new movie 'Kadak Halli Hudugaru'. The Rajkumar family, which has produced superhit movies starring Rajkumar, including 'Sampatthige Sawal', 'Srinivasa Kalyana' and others in the past, will be shooting a movie in Gajanur for the first time.

Rajkumar's younger sister Nagamma will sound the clap board for the movie in which Raghavendra Rajkumar will be starring in the lead role after several years. The actor-producer said they hope to be blessed by their parents and ancestors.

Raghavendra said a song sequence will be shot in Gajanur showing their ancestral home, the school in which Rajkumar studied and the local Manteswamy temple. Recalling the strong bond and motherly care Nagamma shares with him and his siblings, Raghavendra said it was an emotional moment when the ailing Nagamma hugged him and his family members at their farmhouse.

He also performed the housewarming of Rajkumar's ancestral home in Talawadi. His youngest brother, Puneeth Rajkumar, who died after a cardiac arrest last November, had taken up renovation of the house and had planned to convert it into a photo museum of the family. The house had almost collapsed due to incessant rains, prompting Puneeth to take up renovation.

Raghavendra said the ancestral home is the property of every Kannadiga and it will be thrown open to the public.

SC bail for convict in Rajiv killing

Perarivalan has been in jail for more than 30 yrs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday granted bail to AG Perarivalan, who is undergoing life imprisonment in the assassination case related to former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi.

Taking note of the submission that the convict has been in jail for more than 30 years and his conduct in the prison, a bench comprising Justices L Nageswara Rao and BR Gavai granted relief to Perarivalan.

"Taking into account the fact that the applicant has spent over 30 years in prison, we are of the considered view that he is entitled to be released on bail, in spite of the vehement opposition by the Centre," the bench stated in the interim order.

The top court was hearing the plea of 47-year-old Perarivalan seeking suspension of his life sentence in the case till the Multi Disciplinary Monitoring Agency (MDMA) probe is completed. A special leave petition was filed by Perarivalan in 2016 against the Madras High Court order refusing his plea seeking commutation of sentence.

Rajiv was assassinated on the night of May 21, 1991, at Sriperumbudur in Tamil Nadu by a woman suicide bomber, identified as Dhanu, at a public meeting which was part of the election campaign. Fourteen others, including Dhanu herself, were also killed.

While hearing the matter, the bench noted that Perarivalan is currently on parole and he has been granted parole earlier thrice.

In its May 1999 order, the apex court had upheld the death sentence of four convicts - Perarivalan, Murugan, Santham and Nalini.

On February 18, 2014, the top court had commuted the death sentence of Perarivalan to life imprisonment, along with that of two other prisoners - Santhan and Murugan - on the grounds of an 11-year delay in deciding their mercy pleas by the Centre.

Karvy scam: ED attaches ₹1,984 cr assets

PINTO DEEPAK @Hyderabad

THE Enforcement Directorate has provisionally attached ₹1,984 crore worth properties belonging to Karvy Stock Broking Ltd, its chairman C Parathasarathy and other functionaries of KSBL in connection with the money laundering investigation against them.

The attached properties include 102 of landed properties worth ₹213.69 crore, shareholding of Parathasarathy in KFin Technologies, a sister concern worth ₹438.70 crore and tangible and intangible assets worth ₹1,280 crore of other sister concerns -- KDMSL, KFSL NBFC and KSBL, all totalling to ₹1,984 crore, the ED said.

The ED initiated money laundering investigation on the basis of FIRs filed by the Central Crime Station of Hyderabad city police on the complaints of lending banks which complained that the Karvy Group had availed large amounts of loans by illegally pledging their clients' shares worth about ₹2,800 crore and the said loans have become non-performing assets (NPA) after the release of the client's securities as per the orders of NSE & SEBI.

The ED collected the audit conducted by NSE and the orders passed by SEBI and ROC against KSBL and the forensic audit reports of M/s BDO India LLP. Further, searches were conducted at nine locations in September, 2021 and later Parathasarathy and G Hari Krishna, CFO of Karvy Group, were produced before ED Court in Hyderabad and arrested in January, 2021. They are in judicial custody.

Shares of clients who did not owe any funds to KSBL had been transferred to the Pool Account of KSBL and were pledged with the banks by making misleading declarations of ownership.

A complex web of financial transactions, using several shell entities and NBFCs, has been executed to conceal the source of these funds with a view to project them as untainted funds and large amounts of proceeds of crime have been 'invested' by infusing in the form of investments, share capital, short term advances, loans to group companies.

Stumbling block of NEET will be removed, vows Stalin

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

NO one should be denied education because of caste, location, background, money, religion, attire, or gender, Chief Minister MK Stalin said on Wednesday, explaining his government's opposition to the NEET.

In a video speech at 10th edition of the ThinkEdu Conclave, organised by TNIE, Stalin said the Dravidian movement had worked to remove hurdles in the path to accessing education. "But they have now come up with another stumbling block in the name of NEET... The stumbling block will be removed," he declared.

THINKEDU CONCLAVE
SASTRA

Alleging that the BJP-led Union government has destroyed the education system, he said communal forces are now poisoning young minds.

"Education is not in the concurrent list for the Union government to promote its regressive principles.

Education is the asset of this nation and the right of every citizen. The party in power at the Centre wanting to destroy it is like depriving people of oxygen... That is why we have been demanding that education be moved back to the State list," he said.

Dismissing the National Education Policy, as old-fashioned ideas presented under a new name, he said, despite the constraints, the DMK government has been implementing progressive schemes.

"To bridge the learning loss during the pandemic, the Illam Thedi Kalvi scheme was introduced," Stalin said.

All 24,345 classrooms in TN's government elementary schools are being converted into smart classrooms, and high-tech science and language labs are being set up in 6,992 middle, high, and higher-secondary schools.

EVACUATION LAUDABLE, REAL TEST LIES IN REHABILITATION

After days of horror during which about 700 Indian students trapped in war-hit Sumy, Ukraine, had to endure lack of food, water, medicines and trying conditions in bunkers, news about their evacuation to a safer city and ultimately to India would have come as a huge relief to their worried parents. These students are hopefully the last batch to be extracted from Ukraine. Their evacuation was made possible after Russia provided safe passage to civilians from at least three embattled cities. Credit should also go to the government and Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who worked the phone with the Russian and Ukrainian leadership for a temporary halt to the fighting in order to take out the trapped students in Kharkiv, Sumy and Pisochyn. It also speaks about India's influence that both the countries responded rather positively to our appeals. But what left a bitter taste was the PR exercise the evacuation process was reduced to. The government sent four ministers to Ukraine's neighbours to smoothen and facilitate the evacuation of students. In itself this was a good move but all of them made it a point to extol the government, paint the evacuation as an achievement and take credit for it. It is possible that no other government sent so many aircraft to fly back its citizens. But a PR spectacle was wholly unnecessary. During the Gulf War in 1990–91, India airlifted about 1.7 lakh of its people from Kuwait and this was achieved without any publicity fuss and credit-taking.

But having achieved the risky task of bringing the Indians home from Ukraine is one thing, rehabilitating the uprooted students, most of them studying medicine, is another. With no sign of Russia ending the war anytime soon, the students face an uncertain future. Regulatory requirements in India for medical degrees are such that the students have to complete their course from a university abroad before they can sit for the Foreign Medical Graduates Examination. The government will have to consider if it can waive this rule. If not, a majority of the students who have already spent lakhs of rupees may have to begin medical studies from scratch.

FIGHTING CASTE-BASED OPPRESSION IN TN

The only mistake my son had made was to have been born into a Scheduled Caste family," V Chitra, the widowed mother of Gokulraj, said last week. Seven years after the 22-year-old engineering graduate was abducted, assaulted and murdered, a special court in Madurai convicted 10 people and acquitted five others in the case. As Chitra, who has battled vicious hatred and untold pressures on the journey to justice, summed up, Gokulraj was killed because of his caste. Specifically, he was killed for being seen as attempting to transgress the artificial but inviolable boundaries of caste. In 2015, the youth was abducted from a temple where he'd been seen talking to a woman belonging to the Gounder community. The next day, his remains were found on a railway track. He had been assaulted and beheaded, his body thrown on the tracks in an attempt to pass off his death as a suicide. The murderers were led by the founder of a caste-outfit determined to enforce caste purity with violence if needed. In an embarrassment to the state police, the main accused, S Yuvaraj spent three months on the run, brazenly releasing media clips and participating in TV interviews and debates.

The Dravidian movement fought to end caste-based discrimination, yet caste-based oppression persists in Tamil society, particularly against Scheduled Castes and Tribes. Caste coexists with patriarchy, and its boundaries are maintained through the oppression of women. As a result, there has been a call for a separate law to deal with such violence, as current legislation is not adequately equipped to provide justice in cases of caste Hindu women facing violence over their choice in partners from another community. However, more legislation alone will not offer a solution unless the bottlenecks in the system—ranging from hostility/reluctance of police to register cases to vacancies at district courts—are addressed. A study by an NGO showed only 13 convictions and 30 acquittals in 300 cases of murder under the SC/ST Act in a five-year period in TN. A whopping 229 cases were still in court. Justice delayed is as good as denied.

Technology must be leveraged to educate and employ the maximum number of women. Businesses can play a critical role in giving them equal opportunities

WOMEN AS CHANGE AGENTS IN CORPORATE INDIA

SOUMYADIP SINHA

CHANDRAJIT BANERJEE

Director General, Confederation of Indian Industry

The Covid outbreak accentuated the gender divide with women, mainly from underprivileged backgrounds, bearing the brunt of the economic and social fallout. As we move towards a Covid-free India, the participation of women, particularly at the decision-making level, will steer the pace of social and economic revival to give shape to the new, post-pandemic India that is emerging.

Achieving gender equality and empowering all women and girls is critically important, and has been spotlighted as a Sustainable Development Goal by the United Nations. To achieve gender equality by 2030, all forms of discrimination against women and girls everywhere must end, as must harmful practices such as child marriage. Moreover, unpaid care by women must be recognised and valued. These are amongst several other changes that the SDG targets. It is also essential to ensure the participation of women and provide them equal opportunities for leadership at all levels of decision-making in political, economic and public life.

While some ground has been covered, gender inequality remains a deep-rooted problem. According to a 2022 Special Report brought out by the UNDP titled 'New threats to human security in the Anthropocene: Demanding greater solidarity', women have lower earnings, which impacts their spending capacity and savings, leaving them more vulnerable to economic shocks due to unexpected calamities like Covid-19. The report states that in 2021, around 435 million women and girls were living on less than $1.90 a day, including the 47 million pushed into poverty during the Covid-19 pandemic.

A recent report by the Pew Research Center titled 'How Indians View Gender Roles in Families and Society', based on a survey of 29,999 Indian adults conducted from November 2019 to March 2020, reveals a mix of attitudes. For instance, a large proportion of Indians still support sex-selective abortions.

The International Women's Day on March 8 again turned the spotlight on women and their potential, which, if harnessed optimally, can accelerate economic growth. According to McKinsey, India can add up to $770 billion (more than 18%) to its GDP by 2025 by ensuring equal opportunities for women.

The government is committed to empowering women with schemes such as Beti Bachao Beti Padhao, Ujjawala, Mission Shakti, Mission Vatsalya, Poshan 2.0 and Saksham Anganwadi highlighted in the Budget 2022, which aim to leverage technology to strengthen processes and mechanisms to benefit women and children.

This is the century when women-led development can change the trajectory for India. This will be possible if there are significant changes across the board, beginning with educational opportunities for the girl child. Girls should be encouraged to take up STEM subjects, which will lead to more joining related fields.

Corporate India can play a critical role in encouraging women and giving them equal opportunities. The firms should ensure there are no gender biases at the recruitment level.

Technology, a great equaliser, must be leveraged to educate and employ the maximum number of women. In fact, due to the pandemic, which ushered in work from home and flexible working hours enabled by technology, the participation of women in the workforce in the formal sector has increased. As per the QES (Quarterly Economic Survey), women's share in total employment stood at 32.1% in Q2 FY22, rising from 29.3% in Q1 FY22. Not only have more women joined the formal workforce, several have adopted the self-employment route, thus creating more jobs.

Better infrastructure support in terms of creches for young mothers would ensure that women do not need to drop out of the workforce at any stage in their lives. More humane HR policies should be adopted to create a genuinely inclusive workspace.

While there is an increase in the number of women in boardrooms, they should be empowered to lead in roles critically important to the organisation. Women continue to play a vital role in India's development. The contribution of a woman working in the fields and a female CEO are equally important in pushing the line on gender equality forward.

Recognising the potential of women and to accelerate their empowerment, the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) began identifying and recognising grassroots women who have emerged as community leaders through an award since 2005. Over the years, CII expanded its initiatives to recognise grassroots women leaders and empower them through capacity building, coaching and mentoring. The CII Foundation Woman Exemplar Program has created a network of almost 100 exemplars driving social change at the grassroots level. To help these professionals reach their full economic potential, the CII Indian Women Network has offerings such as a Campus-to-Career Program and opportunities for mentorship for them, and a tool to help industry self-assess on parameters to make the workspace gender positive and more conducive for women.

March 8 gave us all the opportunity to reassess and refocus our attention on gender equality to create a more equitable India. We must utilise this to shift the needle.

THE UGLY TRUTH ABOUT AVOIDABLE WARS

ASHOKE K MAITRA

Founder, Sri Ramakrishna International Institute of Management (SRIIOM)

From the start of the Russian invasion of Ukraine around two weeks ago, two million people have become refugees. Cities after cities have been attacked with a brutality that defies human imagination. Be it schools, hospitals or nuclear facilities, none has been spared and more could be hit in the coming days. The irony in this situation is that Ukraine voluntarily gave up its nuclear capability for sovereignty, freedom and peace at the behest of Russia and the US. If today Kyiv had nuclear capability, Russia would not have dared to attack.

Ukraine is generally a tolerant nation. The whole problem arose for two reasons: Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy wanted to join NATO, which was totally unacceptable to Putin as he feared that the military alliance would come dangerously close to Moscow. Putin's fear was not entirely unjustified since it is a fact that NATO forces had moved closer to the Russian border and beefed up their presence with more men and ammunition. The second reason, which is the deeper issue, is that Putin, who started his career as a KGB officer, always wanted a United USSR. He dreams of slowly taking over the breakaway nations and creating an undivided USSR as it used to be. In his mind, Ukraine is not a separate nation but a part of the erstwhile USSR. It is clear that Putin won't stop even if he conquers Ukraine; he will want to annex other border countries as well.

For the Russian president, Ukraine was a pilot to see what the US, UK, EU and NATO can do. It is relatively clear to him that they will not get into an open battle with Moscow, to avoid a third world war. The Western countries also don't want to get entangled in a war and spend lots of money. While NATO definitely had instigated Ukraine to openly defy Putin, they are now clearly not prepared to help Kyiv through air or ground support. Now, it seems to be clear to the Ukrainian president and his associates that NATO is a mirage. Zelenskyy's move to announce that his country will not join the military alliance should cool things down and hopefully put an end to the war, saving millions of lives in Ukraine.

On the other hand, Russia needs to understand that it is not only destroying Ukraine but also shattering its own economy. The US, UK and EU have pressed such harsh sanctions that it is going to have a huge impact on Moscow's economy. It is true that Russia has good reserves, but how long can that last given the prolonged nature of the aftereffects of the war? Putin is aware that previous US presidents, George W Bush and Barack Obama, wanted to reset Washington's relations with Russia for economic reasons, and therefore, he probably feels that this episode of sanctions will not last long enough. This scenario is perhaps making him apathetic to sanctions.

In the end, be it Russia or the US, wars are needed to sell huge amounts of ammunition that run the economic engine of many countries. The refugees from these wars are those with the least negotiating power, and therefore, they can be paid the lowest wages and made to work the hardest. Many capitalists thrive in such a situation.

Even though the state-run media in Russia is trying to brainwash the people and stop them from seeing the news broadcast in the international media, in today's digital and web-based world, that is nearly impossible. One can reduce media getting into the house, but can't stop it. Many Russians have connections, be it family or friends, in Ukraine and do not want a war. President Putin may not realise it, but his equity has nosedived as much as the Russian economy.

Russia also needs to understand that the common citizens of Ukraine, for the first time, have lifted arms to stop Moscow's march into their country. Putin had thought that he could capture Ukraine in just a few days.

However, today, even after around two weeks from the start of the Russian invasion, the Ukrainian army and civilians are fighting valiantly. The whole world is in praise of their courage, patriotism and commitment to die for their nation.

Even if Russia conquers Ukraine, the hatred for the former from the citizens of the latter will not vanish. There will be large protests, guerilla warfare and the rise of insurgency to fight against the Russian army. It will prove to be very costly for Moscow to maintain an army and control the hostile citizens. It is indeed unfortunate that NATO, which egged President Zelenskyy to defy Russia, today is only supporting Ukraine with arms and ammunition and is unwilling to provide air support or put boots on the ground. It is not possible for Ukraine, a small country, no matter how brave its people are, to defeat Russia on its own. These wars also increase climate change, destroy the ecology and the environment apart from killing thousands of people.

Blame game begins in UP

After exit polls predicted the BJP's return to power in Uttar Pradesh, former CM Akhilesh Yadav has already started claiming that the EVMs were tampered with. Instead of getting ready to accept the verdict of the people, the SP supremo has begun the blame game. The Election Commission has time and again made it clear that EVM tampering is impossible and has often proved it by demonstrations. Instead of blaming the EC, he should respect the people's judgement.

S Ravindranath, Bengaluru

Don't need regional rajas

The BJP is winning not due to its strength but because of the weakness of opposition parties. A look at the inner democracy in opposition parties will make it clear that with the exception of the Left, none have a strong organisational set-up. They follow either dynastic politics or are a one-man show. Opposition parties such as the Congress, TMC, AAP, SP, BSP or DMK are either controlled by their individual leaders and/or their relatives. This is not democracy. We are trying to walk away from kingdoms and don't need regional rajas and ranis across India.

Budgets and freebies

This is with reference to Another populist Telangana Budget, but where is the money? (Mar 9). Announcing populist schemes in state Budgets has become commonplace these days as parties always have an eye on their vote banks. Freebies from the state have gone into the bloodstream of the citizens and as such the government too has to dance according to the tunes of its people. No one appears to care whether the Budget promises of the previous years were fulfilled or worries about the deficit details and the like. The Centre also mostly fails to pay its dues to states. The TN Budget has been scheduled for March 18. We have great expectations from the finance minister, a stalwart in the economic field, and are hopeful that it will be a viable Budget satisfying all sections.

Kerala investment climate

As the Pinarayi Vijayan 2.0 government prepares to present its second Budget, the impetus must be on efforts to leave no stone unturned to improve the investment climate in Kerala—historically not conducive to business—instead of placing the burden on the common man to bolster the economy (Increasing revenue only way out, feel experts, Mar 9).

Successful evacuation

It is heartening to note that the about 700 Indian students who were stuck in Ukraine's Sumy were successfully moved out and have left for Poltava. This task seemed daunting as human corridors were not in place despite the Russian promise to hold fire for civilians and students to leave Sumy for safer places. A lesser-known story that is emerging is that some students who have landed in Poland and neighbouring EU countries are unwilling to board flights home. They intend to remain there by claiming refugee status, as they seek greener pastures in the EU.

S Lakshmi, Hyderabad

The West is no saint

Ukraine may have been the victim of Russian aggression, but to keep taunting Moscow and provoking it further is foolhardy (We will fight till the end, vows Zelenskyy, Mar 9). This would do no good for the future prosperity of the country. The US and its NATO allies are no saints and have been responsible for triggering violence and bringing geopolitical instability across the globe, the latest being Afghanistan. Russia is now at the receiving end of a barrage of economic sanctions that threatens to choke its economy and bring upon more suffering. The world is fearing a nuclear war, which would spell gloom for humanity. It is time for Ukraine to introspect, stop its honeymoon with the Western countries and maintain maximum restraint while dealing with Russia.

Journey on train amidst sounds of explosion

Last batch of students evacuated from Sumy reaches Lviv near Poland, other Indians also among those rescued

ANKITA UPADHYAY @New Delhi

"WE had lost all hope that we would be evacuated from Sumy and that is why we decided to walk on our own," said Aashiq Hussain Sarkar, a sixth-year student of Sumy State University. "It was a do or die situation, but thankfully, the Indian government came to our rescue," he added.

The Indo-Polish Chamber of Commerce and Industry, which is assisting the Indian embassy in Poland, informed that the train carrying the students from Sumy will be received by Polish authorities at Przemysl station. "We anticipate no delay here as the main office in Warsaw has sensitised the local guards," said the chamber in a statement.

While students from universities across Ukraine reached the borders of Poland, Hungary, Slovakia and Romania on their own, those in Sumy were terrorised. The city is close to the Russian border where the war began.

Aashiq said the route to Poltava was a tough one, as there were bombings and explosions all around and the bus stopped each time intermittently. "The train to Lviv was also running extremely slow," he said.

The Indian embassy in Poland has arranged hotel rooms for the students. On Tuesday, buses were also arranged to take them to Poltava from Sumy. The embassy has also announced flight schedules for the returning students. One flight each from Air India, one Air Force and IndiGo will bring the students back to India on Thursday.

"We are grateful that our demands were met and the Indian government evacuated us," said Pinaki Ranjan, a student of the same university. He was speaking to this daily while travelling to Lviv from Poltava on train. From Lviv they will cross over to Poland and catch a flight to India.

Aashiq informed that along with the students, some Indians working in Sumy are also coming back in the special train arranged for the students. "A pharmacy owner who was providing us food items during these two weeks since the war started in Ukraine also boarded the train with us."

Aashiq said that since the Indian students left the northeastern Sumy city, Russian attacks on the city increased and around 50 people lost their lives in the bombing on Tuesday.

Opinion divided over medical education resumption of returnees

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

OPINION is divided on how or whether to extend educational help to medical students who have returned from Ukraine. While the Maharashtra government is contemplating online lessons, a medical education association in Punjab has said these students should not be admitted in state colleges.

Maharashtra's Medical Education Minister Amit Deshmukh held a meeting on Wednesday on how these students can be assisted. It was attended by Higher and Technical Education Minister Uday Samant, vice-chancellor of Maharashtra University of Health Sciences (MUHS) Madhuri Kanitkar and Shiv Sena Member of Legislative Council Manisha Kayande.

"MUHS has expressed willingness to conduct courses for Ukraine-returned students. These would be online courses, covering parts of the course which the students would have missed," Kayande said.

Those who had taken admission to medical colleges in Ukraine in November 2021 or later may also be allowed to appear for NEET, the entrance exam for medical courses in India, said an official present at the meeting. Of the 18,000 Indian students who were studying in Ukraine, around 2,000 were from Maharashtra state, the official said.

Although there has been no such announcement, the Punjab State Medical and Dental Teachers Association (PSMDTA) has decided to formally object to any move of the Union government or National Medical Commission to accommodate these students in government medical collages in the state, in the interest of students already studying in those.

Talking with this newspaper, PSMDTA president Dr Diwan Singh Bhullar said, "At a meeting of the association it was decided that students who have returned from Ukraine should not be given admission in government collages. The Centre should chalk out a plan for them. But we will oppose any move to accommodate the students who have returned from Ukraine in government medical colleges, as by this move meritorious students already admitted in these institutes will get affected.''

OUT OF WAR ZONE

Only India evacuating citizens, not others: Yogi

Lucknow: UP CM Yogi Adityanath has claimed that only India is bringing back its citizens from Ukraine. He said students from other countries were left on their own. "This facility (of bringing back home) was available only to Indian citizens and students. You must have seen that students from other countries studying with you were left on their own at the mercy of god. Their governments did not take any cognisance of bringing them back," he said. "Because of PM Modi's good relations with Romania, Hungary and Poland, no problem has arisen anywhere," the CM said.

Pakistani woman among 17 foreigners rescued by India

New Delhi: A Pakistani citizen was among 17 foreign nationals who were rescued by India from Sumy. Official sources said besides the Pakistani woman, Asma Shafique, a Nepalese citizen, two Tunisians and 13 Bangladeshis were rescued by India, along with nearly 700 Indian citizens. Meanwhile, Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina has thanked Prime Minister Narendra Modi for evacuating nine Bangladeshi students. Indian authorities have all along maintained they would go all out in rescuing students of other nationalities who reached out to them.

How social media helped stranded Indian students

New Delhi: A video of students stranded in the war-hit Ukrainian city of Sumy holding Indian flags and threatening to take up a journey to the Russian border on foot created an uproar in national and international media, which in turn, prompted the Indian authorities to fast-track their evacuation process. Cut to Wednesday, all the stranded students have been evacuated from the northeastern Ukrainian city. The incident provides an apt example of how social media helped people stuck in the ongoing war involving Russia and Ukraine.

BJP attacks Cong for 'misleading' politics on evacuation effort

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

THE day the last batch of Indian students was moved out of Ukraine, the BJP came out guns blazing against Congress. The ruling party accused the main opposition of its "misleading" politics over the government's evacuation efforts.

Lashing out at Congress, Union Minister Piyush Goyal said, "It is extremely unfortunate that some Congress leaders and chief ministers tried to create misleading propaganda and defame the government, when the entire effort of the government was focussed on safe evacuation of students."

Goyal was addressing a media conference, with fellow Union minister Anurag Thakur. Goyal alleged that Congress leader Rahul Gandhi was spreading false information. "When the country was leaving no stone unturned to bring back the students stranded in war-hit Ukraine, some leaders of Congress including Rahul Gandhi not only tried to defame the government, but also made some comments on Russia," union minister said.

He also said that whenever the country faced a crisis, the stand of Congress leaders have never been supportive. "This party has started doing politics of such a low level."

Goyal said Prime Minister Narendra Modi himself oversaw Operation Ganga to ensure safe evacuation. "The PM chaired eight high-level meetings and spoke 11 times to global leaders, thrice to Russian President Vladimir Putin and two times to Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy."

He said the PM's bold initiative has enhanced India's prestige, as many students of other countries have left Ukraine carrying Indian flags. "It is a matter of pride for us that almost all Indian students and others have been evacuated in the last three weeks."

Goyal said that External Affair Minister S Jaishankar spent many sleepless nights to ensure safe evacuation of the students. Goyal also said that when countries like China floundered in the evacuation process, India did it successfully.

FOURFOLD RISE IN INDIA'S CREDIT FOR NEIGHBOURS

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

INDIA'S Lines of Credit (LOC) to its neighbours have increased fourfold since 2014. From $3.27 billion in 2014, it went up to $14.7 in 2020.

The bulk of India's worldwide soft lending, almost 50 per cent of the country's global envelop, goes to its partners in the neighbourhood.

The largest concessional credit given by India to a country has been to Bangladesh. "We have extended three LOCs for $8 billion to Bangladesh, the largest concessional credit given by India to any single country. We are also developing two Indian Economic Zones at Mirsarai and Mongla in Bangladesh,'' said Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal, during the India-Bangladesh stake-holders' meet on Tuesday.

Sri Lanka, too, has been dependent on loans from India. It has received support totalling over $1.4 billion, of which $400 million was a currency swap and $500 million was loan deferment and $500 million LOC for fuel imports. A further $1 billion assistance under negotiations is being processed, which is likely to be cleared by the time Sri Lanka's Finance Minister Basil Rajapaksa visits India this month.

Other countries in the neighbourhood to have received LOCs are Nepal ($1.65 billion), Myanmar (476 million) and Maldives ($1.3 billion). "The Neighbourhood First policy, at the instance of the Prime Minister, accords highest priority to our relations with Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, Nepal, Maldives, Myanmar, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. It is these countries, with the exception of Pakistan, that we work most closely with,'' said foreign secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla, speaking about India's neighbourhood at Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration on Wednesday.

Development assistance in the form of concessional LOC is extended by the government of India under the Indian Development and Economic Assistance Scheme (IDEAS) through the Exim Bank of India.

In all, 306 LOCs worth $ 30.59 billion have been extended to 65 countries across the globe. The projects cover infrastructure, power generation, irrigation, healthcare and capacity building. Until now, 322 LOC projects have been completed and 277 are under implementation.

"Our ties with these countries are underpinned by a shared history and culture. Policy initiatives taken by India and its neighbours have implications for each other,'' the foreign secretary said.

Baghel revives old pension scheme

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

CHHATTISGARH Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel, while presenting a populist budget for the financial year 2022-23 on Wednesday, announced the implementation of the old pension scheme for the government employees including those who were appointed in the state government service since January 2005.

"Taking into consideration the demand of the government officers and employees of the state, the old pension scheme will be restored in place of the new pension system scheme," the chief minister said.

Baghel, who is also in-charge of finance portfolio, presented the budget estimate of ₹1,04,000 crore, which is 7 per cent more than the estimated budget receipts over the previous year revised expenditure estimates.

While citing the budget as a strong step to meet the objectives aligned with village-centric new economy based 'Chhattisgarh model', the budget laid down provision of 37 per cent for social sector, 40 per cent for economic sector and 23 percent for general services sector.

The MLA funds under the Local Area Development Scheme has been increased from ₹2 crore to ₹4 crore. For providing housing to urban poor families —'Mor Bhoomi Mor Makaan' and 'Mor Makaan Mor Chinhari' the budget has laid provision of ₹450 crore.

Now, the examination fees for applicants domiciles in Chhattisgarh will be waived-off in all professional examinations to be conducted by the Chhattisgarh Professional Examination Board and the Chhattisgarh Public Service Commission.

Shah wishing Shashi sparks speculations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AT a time when exit polls have projected BJP to retain power in Uttar Pradesh and a rout for Congress, a call from Union Home Minister Amit Shah on the eve of declaration of results to Congress MP Shashi Tharoor set political circles abuzz. Shah wished Tharoor on his birthday and that took the latter by surprise.

"Surprised and touched to receive a telephone call from Home Minster @AmitShah wishing me on my birthday. There must be something special about turning 66! Most grateful for the kind words," Tharoor tweeted. Earlier in the day, Tharoor was also wished by PM Narendra Modi.

Some observers said it was not the first such gesture on the part of senior BJP leaders. Tharoor had in the past wished PM Narendra Modi and LK Advani on their birthdays.

A BJP source said that Tharoor is almost sidelined despite having the image of an intelligent and educated leader. "If he wishes to come with us, most welcome," said the source.

Focus on edu, health in MP's child-centric budget

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

NO new taxes were proposed, nor were the rates of existing ones hiked, in the Madhya Pradesh state budget for 2022-23, which focused on child welfare, education and health sectors. The ₹2.79 lakh crore budget was presented in the Assembly on Wednesday by state Finance Minister Jagdish Devda amid continuous uproar by Congress MLAs.

For the first time, a 'child budget' was presented comprising announcements for those aged up to 18 years.

The children specific announcements included 7 per cent increase in proposed allocation to school education department to ₹27,792 crore compared to ₹25,953 crore earmarked in last year's budget.

ASSEMBLY ELECTION 2022
DECIDE

Gujarat BJP makes plans to celebrate 'poll victory' in UP

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

THE Gujarat BJP has made elaborate preparations to celebrate the "victory" of the party in Assembly elections in five states. The leadership is elated over the exit poll results which have predicted clear victory of the saffron camp in UP and Manipur. The poll results will be out on Thursday.

Incidently, Prime Minister Narendra Modi is scheduled to arrive in the state on a two-day visit starting from Friday. Also, the RSS has organised a three-day national meet in the state, coinciding with the PM's visit. The state government has cancelled the Assembly session on Friday as the entire cabinet will be busy with the PM's programmes.

As the Assembly election is approaching in Gujarat, BJP has started preparations in earnest and is gearing up to retain power at any cost. The party is likely to kick off its Gujarat election campaign on March 11 in the presence of Modi.

As the BJP is confident of a thumbing victory in UP, the Gujarat leadership is planning victory celebrations in a big way. A BJP leader speaking on condition of anonymity said: "During the Prime Minister's programme, we have made grand preparations to celebrate the results in five states, especially in UP."

The state BJP unit has also asked its workers to reach the party headquarters during the victory celebration in the presence of PM Modi, said the leader.

UP awaits verdict with bated breath

Election result will be a ruling on Yogi's performance and Akhilesh's rainbow alliance

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

THE stage is set for the culmination of the electoral battle to win the country's most populous and politically crucial state of Uttar Pradesh with the counting of votes to 403 constituencies on Thursday.

While the outcome of the 2022 Assembly elections will be in a way a referendum on incumbent chief minister Yogi Adityanath's performance, for others like the Samajwadi Party (SP), the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) and the Congress, it will be a do-or-die battle.

No wonder then that the parties breached all barriers in holding a two-month-long high-octane campaign across 75 districts to woo voters outside the ambit of their clout and respective caste bases. However, the poll panel had imposed restrictions owing to the third wave of the Covid-19 pandemic.

In what was appearing to be a bipolar contest between the ruling BJP and the main opposition Samajwadi Party, the Bahujan Samaj Party relatively remained a silent player on the ground with limited appearance of party chief Mayawati in the poll arena.

Mayawati has helmed the state for four-terms as chief minister. After forming the government thrice in alliance with the BJP, Mayawati came to power with absolute majority after the 2007 Assembly polls.

On the other, Congress, which had been put of power in UP since 1989, succeeded in getting visibility through its extensive campaign this time.

The ruling BJP contested in alliance with its tried and tested partner Apna Dal (S) led by Anupriya Patel, who is a minister in the Modi cabinet, and NISHAD, led by Dr Sanjay Nishad, an MLC coming from the boatmen community among the most backward castes. The BJP fielded candidates on 376 of the total 403 segments leaving 24 seats for the allies.

As for the Samajwadi Party, taking lessons from its back-to-back defeats since 2014, Akhilesh Yadav tried to beat the saffron brigade in its own game this time by stitching a rainbow coalition of seven smaller caste-based parties to do away with the tag of 'the party of Yadavs and Muslims'.

SP had struck alliance with Rashtriya Lok Dal (RLD), Mahan Dal, Janwadi Party (Socialist), Apna Dal faction led by Krishna Patel, Suheldev Bhartiya Samaj Party, Shivpal Yadav's Pragatisheel Samajwadi Party and Gondwana Gantantra Party. BSP and Congress did not have any alliance and fielded candidates on most seats.

The notification for the seven-phase UP elections was issued on January 8 and the voting for 58 seats in the first phase took place on February 10. Second phase for 55 seats took place on February 14 followed by third phase for 59 seats on February 20, fourth phase for 61 seats on February 23, fifth phase for 60 seats on February 27, sixth phase for 57 seats on March 3 and the last phase of voting for 54 seats on March 7.

A day after Akhilesh's charges, EC removes three poll officials in UP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow/New Delhi

A day after the Samajwadi Party alleged that electronic voting machines were being shifted in an unauthorised manner, the Election Commission on Wednesday removed three officials from election duty in UP.

The nodal officer for EVMs in Varanasi, a returning officer (RO) in Sonbhadra district and an additional election officer in Bareilly district have been pulled out from election duties, a day ahead of the counting of votes in UP.

Earlier in the day, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav shot off a letter to the EC seeking webcasting of the counting process.

The SP chief wrote to the EC a day after he levelled some serious allegations of manipulation of voting machines in Varanasi. "The Samajwadi Party demands that for all constituencies, webcasting of the counting process should be done and the link should be shared with the Election Commission, Chief Election Commissioner, polling officials and political parties... So that the political parties can watch the counting process 'live', and the process can be conducted in a transparent and independent manner," said the letter written in Hindi.

Akhilesh Yadav had accused the ruling party on Tuesday of trying to "steal the votes" by manipulating EVMs. The SP chief had claimed that since his party candidate was winning the Ayodhya seat, the BJP got scared and asked the DM concerned to slow down the counting process.

However, the BJP registered a strong objection to the allegations and a party delegation visited the ECI on Wednesday to register their protest against the claims of SP chief. "Should such leaders even be allowed to participate in the elections, the ultimate celebration of democracy? The EC must take a view on the matter," they said.

Akali chief seeks ban on exit polls

CHANDIGARH: Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) chief Sukhbir Singh Badal sought a ban on exit polls from the Election Commission on Wednesday. His demand came after a number of exit polls predicted that the AAP is set to form the next government in Punjab. "Opinion & #ExitPolls are now a scam that amounts to electoral malpractice through bags of govt money to subvert free & fair poll," he tweeted.

BJP, JD-U debate over 'Yogi model'

PATNA: The leaders of BJP and its partner JD-U in Bihar are debating whether CM Nitish's model or that of UP CM Yogi Adityanath is suitable for Bihar. BJP leader Haribhushan Thakur Bachol described the 'Adityanath model' as "most suitable" for Bihar. JD-U's Neeraj Kumar retorted: "It's Nitish Model in Bihar and it will continue." He said the Centre adopted many schemes earlier launched by Nitish Kumar in the state.

Can BJP form govt in Manipur by itself?

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

THE ruling BJP in Manipur is girding up for celebration on Thursday — whether it wins a full majority or not.

The exit polls have predicted the party will win anything in the range of 25 to 43 seats in the 60-member House. Even if the BJP does not touch the half-way mark of 30, the general perception is that it will emerge as the single-largest party.

In the lead up-to the two-phase polls, there was little doubt the BJP will end up as the biggest gainer. A depleted and therefore weakened Congress made the BJP's task easy. However, some people are still skeptical if the saffron party can form the government on its own.

There are various factors why the BJP will do better than the other parties. One of them is its advantage of being in power at the Centre. It has been a tradition in most states in the Northeast that people vote largely in favour of the party which is in power at the Centre.

Secondly, the Congress considerably lost its ground in the state after half of its 28 MLAs jumped ship to be with the BJP. The Congress also lacked fresh blood and relied heavily on the seasoned politician and former chief minister Okram Ibobi Singh as it went to polls.

Incumbent CM N Biren Singh claimed people had voted for the BJP to allow peace and development to continue in the state. "Violence, encounters, bandhs and blockades were common before 2017. The BJP established peace. As there was no disparity, all regions of the state developed equally over the past five years. We are confident the BJP will win a minimum of 40 seats," Singh said.

If the polls throw up a hung Assembly, a BJP-headed coalition government appears likely. The Naga People's Front (NPF) has already committed its support to the BJP. The BJP is also likely to get the support of its alleged "B Team" JD-U.

The Congress is not dreaming big. The party is hoping to win more than 20 seats and open to alliance with any non-BJP party. It is in touch with the BJP's estranged ally National People's Party (NPP) which heads a coalition government in Meghalaya.

"NPP and Congress are natural allies. The BJP has thrown the NPP out of the ruling alliance. Our goal is that the BJP should not be able to form the government," Congress spokesman K Debabrata told this newspaper. "The NPF said it is not aligning with the Congress but if they want to come to us, they can do so. Our doors are open."

Given its past experience, the Congress sent five observers to the state on Tuesday to keep its flock together. The Congress had contested 53 seats as against the BJP's 60.

Moily warns of horse trading

ENS @Bengaluru

FORMER Karnataka CM Veerappa Moily cautioned against horse trading as the nation awaits the results of elections to five states on Thursday.

He told TNIE that Congress legislators had been poached in Goa in 2017, and in other states too, and this is an unhealthy development. "It is illegal and violates the law of the land. We expect to do well in Punjab, Goa, Uttarakhand and Manipur this time," Moily said. He said he was concerned about the dilution of the principles of democracy. Speaking at the announcement of his autobiography 'Nanna Bhogaseya Akasha', which will be launched on March 12, he said Dr G Parameshwara, who served as KPCC president and deputy CM, will release the book at Ravindra Kalakshetra. He said the English version will be ready in a few months. He said the book, which has been in progress for three-and-a-half years, contains those magical moments of becoming chief minister, serving on the Tax Reforms Commission, his experiences in the Lok Sabha elections, and also answers why he chose the Congress.

TMC will renew contract with PK, clip wings

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

TRINAMOOL Congress has decided to continue its contract with poll strategist Prashant Kishor but in a limited role as advisor. West Bengal's ruling party has told Kishor to forward recommendations of his team, I-PAC, directly to CM Mamata Banerjee. It is learnt that the strategist has been directed not to intervene in party's internal issues.

The gag is said to be significant in the backdrop of recent developments ahead of the civic polls resulting embarrassment for the ruling party after Kishor's team uploaded a list of candidates on a social media platform of the party without Mamata's Approval. The candidate list, mainly comprising the followers of Mamata's nephew Abhishek Banerjee, was turned down by the party chief.

"She (Mamata) was disturbed with I-PAC's act and she expressed her desire to terminate the contract with Kishor and his team. She, however, changed the decision considering some initiatives, which were Kishor's brainchild, ahead of the last year's Assembly elections that were proved effective to take voters, especially women, into confidence," said a senior TMC leader.

Sources in the TMC said, Kishor was directed not to intervene in the party's reshuffle. "He was asked to give suggestions on government initiatives and outreach drives," said another leader of the party.

Distance between Kishor, who was hired by Abhishek following TMC's unimpressive performance in 2019, and Mamata came to the fore ahead of the civic polls. "Abhishek was trying to create his own image in the party and he wanted to field young and fresh faces in the civic poll fray. Kishor's team worked on it and prepared a list of candidates accordingly. The list was uploaded in social media without the CM's approval," said the leader.

Congratulating BSRTC officials on completion of one year, the state Transport Minister Sheela Kumari said the electric buses were plying for Rajgir and Bihar Sharif (both in Nalanda), and Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga. State transport secretary Sanjay Agarwal said that 25 new electric buses would be introduced on different routes from Patna in the near future. 17 WOUNDED IN RUSSIAN AIR STRIKE ON MARIUPOL MATERNITY HOSPITAL

People, children under wreckage, tweets Zelenskyy; no health facility should be a target, says UN

KYIV

A RUSSIAN airstrike devastated a maternity hospital Wednesday in the besieged port city of Mariupol and wounded at least 17 people, Ukrainian officials said, amid growing warnings from the West that Moscow's invasion is about to take a more brutal and indiscriminate turn.

The ground shook more than a mile away when the Mariupol complex was hit by a series of blasts that blew out windows and ripped away much of the front of one building. Police and soldiers rushed to scene to evacuate victims, carrying out a heavily pregnant and bleeding woman on a stretcher.

Another woman wailed as she clutched her child. In the courtyard, mangled cars burned, and a blast crater extended at least two stories deep.

"Today Russia committed a huge crime," said Volodymyr Nikulin, a top regional police official, standing in the wreckage.

"It is a war crime without any justification."

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy wrote on Twitter that there were "people, children under the wreckage" and called the strike an "atrocity." Video shared by Zelenskyy showed cheerfully painted hallways strewn with twisted metal.

"There are few things more depraved than targeting the vulnerable and defenseless," British Prime Minister Boris Johnson tweeted, adding that Russian President Vladimir Putin will be held "to account for his terrible crimes."

Authorities, meanwhile, announced new cease-fires Wednesday morning to allow thousands of civilians to escape from bombarded towns around Kyiv as well as the cities of Mariupol, Enerhodar and Volnovakha in the south, Izyum in the east and Sumy in the northeast.

It was not immediately clear whether anyone was able to leave other cities, but people streamed out of Kyiv's suburbs, many headed for the city center, as explosions were heard in the capital and air raid sirens sounded repeatedly.

From there, the evacuees planned to board trains bound for western Ukrainian regions not under attack.

Civilians leaving the Kyiv suburb of Irpin were forced to make their way across the slippery wooden planks of a makeshift bridge, because the Ukrainians blew up the concrete span to Kyiv days ago to slow the Russian advance.

With sporadic gunfire echoing behind them, firefighters dragged an elderly man to safety in a wheelbarrow, a child gripped the hand of a helping soldier, and a woman inched her way along cradling a fluffy cat inside her winter coat.

They trudged past a crashed van with the words "Our Ukraine" written in the dust coating its windows. AP

Russian forces close in on Kyiv on eve of high-level talks in Turkey

KYIV

RUSSIAN troops closed in on Ukraine's capital on Wednesday as the two countries prepared for their first high-level talks since Moscow launched the invasion two weeks ago.

As fighting raged for a 14th day, Russian forces made rapid advances towards Kyiv, approaching Brovary, a large eastern suburb of the capital.

"The columns of Russian tanks yesterday took two villages a few kilometres away," said Volodymyr, a 41-year-old resident of Velyka Dymerka, about 15 kilometres (nine miles) from Brovary.

"They shoot to scare people and force them to stay at home, steal what they can to get supplies and settle among the inhabitants, so that the Ukrainian forces do not bomb them."

Fighting has intensified in the area, with Ukrainian forces trying to repel the Russian tanks, local residents and volunteers of the Ukrainian forces said.

The United States said Wednesday it was redeploying two anti-aircraft batteries from Germany to Ukraine's neighbour Poland, a Pentagon official said.

Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov and his Ukrainian counterpart Dmytro Kuleba were set to hold face-to-face talks in southern Turkey on Thursday. Kuleba confirmed in a video on Facebook he was preparing to meet Lavrov on Thursday, warning that his expectations were "limited".

President Volodymyr Zelensky earlier urged Western powers to decide on a Polish offer to supply his country with fighter jets, after Washington rejected an initial plan as unviable.

"We ask you again to decide as soon as possible. Send us planes," he said. Fears are mounting that Russia will encircle Kyiv, where an orchestra on Wednesday performed in the city's Maidan Square in a morale-boosting concert that included the EU anthem "Ode to Joy". AFP

Power cut at Chernobyl, no 'critical' safety impact: IAEA

VIENNA

POWER has been cut to the Chernobyl power plant, the site of the world's worst nuclear disaster, Ukraine said Wednesday, but the UN's atomic watchdog said there was "no critical impact on safety".

The plant "was fully disconnected from the power grid," Ukraine's energy operator Ukrenergo said in a statement on its Facebook page, adding that military operations meant "there is no possibility to restore the lines". It said that there was also no power to the site's security systems.

On February 24, Russia invaded Ukraine and seized the defunct plant, site of a 1986 disaster that killed hundreds and spread radioactive contamination west across Europe.

The UN atomic watchdog, the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) said in a tweet that while the development "violates (a) key safety pillar", in this case it saw "no critical impact on safety". AFP

China sends aid to Ukraine, nixes sanctions

Beijing: China says it is sending humanitarian aid, including food and daily necessities, worth 5 million yuan ($791,000) to Ukraine while continuing to oppose sanctions on Russia over its invasion. Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian told reporters an initial batch was sent to the Ukrainian Red Cross on Wednesday with more to follow 'as soon as possible.' China has largely backed Russia in the conflict and Zhao reiterated Beijing's opposition to biting economic sanctions against Moscow. Zhao told reporters at a daily briefing that 'wielding the stick of sanctions at every turn will never bring peace'.

CONFLICT RAGES ON

Russian aircraft on Tuesday night bombed residential areas around Kharkiv, Ukraine's second-largest city, and Zhytomyr, and its military also stepped up shelling, the Ukrainian emergency services said

In Malyn, a town of 25,000 near Zhytomyr, the bombing killed at least five people, including two children, and destroyed a textile factory and seven homes, the agency said. Two people died, including a 7-year-old, in the bombing in Chuhuiv near Kharkiv

The mayor of Lviv said the city in far western Ukraine was struggling to feed and house the more than 200,000 people who have fled there. They are being housed in halls and schools

Ukrainian officials also reported dire conditions in the Kyiv suburbs of Bucha, Hostomel, Irpin, Vyshhorod and Borodianka, including bodies of the dead that couldn't be buried

McDonald's, Starbucks, Coca-Cola, PepsiCo and General Electric all have announced they're temporarily suspending business in Russia

Lanka curbs 'luxuries' as forex crisis worsens

COLOMBO

SRI Lanka on Wednesday tightened restrictions on a wide range of imports from whiskey to kitchen appliances as a foreign exchange shortage pushed the economy to the brink of collapse.

An import ban was already introduced in March 2020 on big-ticket items such as cars in an effort by the government to stop the outflow of dollars needed to pay Sri Lanka's debts.

Under the new regulations, 350 items that the government considers luxuries, including apples, grapes and oranges cannot be freely imported.

Chocolates, cheese and pasta will also not be allowed unless the government grants an exception. The measures came two days after the government devalued the local currency by nearly 15%.

Sri Lanka's worst economic crisis since independence in 1948 has led to fuel and electricity rationing, and has crippled public transport and caused long queues for food and medicines. Essentials such as milk powder, sugar, lentils and wheat, as well as medications, are in short supply. AFP

PM seeks legal opinion on no-confidence motion

Islamabad: Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan has met the Attorney General and sought legal opinion on the no-confidence motion submitted by the Opposition parties which have held his government responsible for the uncontrolled inflation. According a report, the government is anxious and making all attempts to foil the Opposition's move to oust the Pakistan Tehreek-i-Insaf regime led by Khan, who has already claimed army's backing. The no-confidence motion, signed by about 100 lawmakers from the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz and Pakistan Peoples Party, was submitted with the National Assembly Secretariat on Tuesday. Khan is heading a coalition government and he can be removed if some of the partners decide to switch sides. PTI

2 prez candidates in tight race as polls close

Seol: A scandal-plagued liberal and an anti-feminist conservative were locked in a dead heat Wednesday in the race to become South Korea's next president, with exit polls showing the two leading candidates less than a percentage point apart. Turnout was high at 77.1 percent, including record early voting, with interest strong despite a campaign dominated by mud-slinging between the two front-runners -- the incumbent Democratic Party's Lee Jae-myung and the opposition conservative People Power Party's Yoon Suk-yeol. The pair, both so unpopular that local media have branded it the "election of the unfavourables", have been neck and neck for months, and an exit poll by three major television networks showed Yoon at 48.4% and Lee at 47.8%. AFP

China hopes bilateral talks can find solution to Ladakh standoff

BEIJING

CHINA on Wednesday hoped that during the upcoming 15th round of high-level military talks with India, the two neighbours can make a "further step forward" and reach a "proper settlement" acceptable to both sides on the remaining friction areas in eastern Ladakh.

Confirming the 15th round of high-level military talks on March 11, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian told a media briefing here on Wednesday that "in the last round of talks, the two sides had candid in-depth exchanges of views on resolving the remaining issues on the western sector of the boundary."

"We hope at the upcoming round of talks; the two sides can make a further step forward on the border issue. We hope we can seek proper settlement of the disputes and reach a solution that is acceptable to both sides," he said.

The talks till now have resulted in the resolution of issues in the North and South banks of Pangong Tso, Galwan and Gogra Hot Spring areas.

There was, however, no fresh breakthrough in the 14th round of the dialogue that took place on January 12 this year.

The two sides will hold the next round at Chushul Moldo meeting point in Ladakh on Friday to end the 22-month standoff at the remaining friction areas, according to Indian officials. Recent statements by both sides to find a mutually acceptable solution have been encouraging and positive in nature, they noted.

India has been talking with China about a quick disengagement on remaining friction points in eastern Ladakh. PTI

Biden orders work to begin on future digital dollar, cryptocurrency review

WASHINGTON

US PRESIDENT Joe Biden on Wednesday ordered government agencies to begin work on creating a digital US dollar, weighing the risks and benefits of a move that could be a game changer for the global financial system.

Coming amid the explosive rise of private crypto currencies like bitcoin, the US effort will place "the highest urgency on research and development efforts into the potential design and deployment options of a United States" digital currency, according to an executive order signed by Biden.

"A United States CBDC may have the potential to support efficient and low-cost transactions, particularly for cross-border funds transfers and payments, and to foster greater access to the financial system," the order said, adding it could also be less risky than private digital assets. CBDC stands for central bank digital currency.

The world's largest economy will join more than 100 countries that are exploring or have launched pilot programs with their own central bank digital currency, including China's digital yuan.

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen said agencies will "evaluate the potential financial stability risks of digital assets and assess whether appropriate safeguards are in place."

And due to the global implications of using digital assets, Washington will work with other governments on the effort that "will also address risks related to illicit finance, protecting consumers and investors, and preventing threats to the financial system and broader economy," Yellen said.

Governments and investors around the world rely on the US greenback as a secure investment, and the dollar is central to commerce as well, including to the global oil market. AFP

LIC IPO gets green light from SEBI

Govt is looking to sell a 5% stake to raise between ₹65,000- ₹80,000 cr through the IPO

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

IN less than a month since filing its draft paper, capital market regulator SEBI has approved the public listing of Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC), sources aware of the development told TNIE.

Now that the state-owned firm has received the approval, it can launch its initial share sale and become a publicly traded company.

The final observation for the public issue of LIC, which had filed its DRHP on February 12, was issued on Tuesday evening. The regulator will formally disclose the information soon.

While the Government of India was expecting to launch its IPO by March 31 to meet its revised divestment target for FY2022, there are strong chances that the offering might get delayed to next fiscal due to the on-going Russia-Ukraine conflict. Russia's invasion of Ukraine has increased volatility on the equity market worldwide; forcing the government and the investment bankers to wait till the sentiment improves.

Benchmark indices Nifty and Sensex have plunged over 7% this calendar year amid a surge in global oil prices and rising concerns of inflation.

India's market has been hit particularly by the massive sell-off by foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) who have pulled out over ₹ 1 lakh crore so far this year.

Analysts feel that the mega offering, which will be largest in India's capital market history, will test depth of the Indian equity market, especially when the current biggest IPO (of Paytm) has bombed on the stock exchanges. Shares of Paytm, which came up with a ₹18,300 crore IPO last year, have crashed more than 60%.

There are also worries on the pricing of the IPO and the embedded valuation LIC is seeking. The government, which holds 100% stake in LIC, is looking to sell a 5% stake to raise between ₹65,000 crore-₹80,000 crore through the IPO.

Analysts say that if the IPO is priced at 2.5-3 times the embedded value, the IPO would be priced at around ₹1,800-2,250, making its valuation too expensive.

India's leadership must to avoid eco disasters: Gautam Adani

BINITA JAISWAL @Chennai

IN the race to avoid ecological disasters, the world will need India's leadership, said Gautam Adani, Chairperson, Adani Group, at the 10th edition of ThinkEdu Conclave, organised by TNIE.

Addressing the conclave virtually, Adani said, "India's track record in living up to its sustainability commitments is better than any other major nation. It is the only large nation that is currently a full nine years ahead of (commitment) schedule." He said the scale of investments announced in sustainability and renewable energy space by Indian conglomerates is unmatched by any other country.

Even the Adani Group has announced $70 billion of investments in the renewable energy value chain, he said.

Lauding the startup ecosystem, Adani said, "Despite the economic havoc caused by the Covid pandemic, half of India's unicorns have emerged last year. Analysts say 50 unicorns will emerge by the end of this year."

Revolution in sustainability and climate change space will offer more opportunities for startups, he said. Stressing on the need to boost digitalisation, Adani said, "When digital technology intersects with sustainability, it creates unforeseen business models."

By 2050, India's population will reach 1.6 billion. With our median age still under 40, we will have competitive demographic advantage over other countries, he said.

"We need to compete with rest of the world but India has significant advantage in terms of youth, digital capability and infrastructural needs. It will drive us to both create and consume. Our response to these challenges will be the foundation of our nation's growth over the next several decades," Adani said, adding that in order to profit from this demographic dividend, India must disrupt its conventional education systems and digitise it.

$5-trn economy goal may have to be delayed on war: TV Narendran

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

INDIA'S goal to become a five-trillion dollar economy by 2025 may have to be delayed by a few years due to the war in Ukraine and the disruptions caused by the Covid pandemic, said TV Narendran, MD and CEO, Tata Steel, at the 10th edition of the TNIE ThinkEdu Conclave in Chennai on Wednesday.

Speaking to Gautam Chikermane, author and vice-president, Observer Research Foundation, Narendran said that we must also consider that it took eight years for India to grow from one-trillion to two-trillion dollar economy and another seven years to reach three trillions.

Speaking about the measures taken by Tata Steel to overcome the pandemic, Narendran said they had strong processes in place to mitigate and respond to risks.

"Though local demand was tepid, Indian steel companies, including Tata Steel, were able to export steel to China that helped the sector recover."

When China recovered faster than other countries from the pandemic, it was a big opportunity for export. At present, we export about 10% to 15% of our produce to Southeast Asia, Europe, Middle East, the US and Europe, Narendran said.

Talking about steps needed to ensure that the Indian manufacturing industry grows at 15% CAGR (Compound Annual Growth Rate), Narendran said governments must ensure stability in policy to help companies cut down their operation cost.

He also said State governments and the Centre should work together on ease of doing business.

Businesses should invest in research and development and should also focus on skill development, Narendran said. Though the government does not create growth, it has a role to play in creating the conditions for growth, he added.

Cabinet okays NLMC to monetise assets of CPSEs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE government on Wednesday informed that it has approved the setting up of National Land Monetization Corporation (NLMC) as a wholly owned Government of India company to monetise surplus land and building assets of Central Public Sector Enterprises (CPSEs) and other Government agencies.

The company will have an initial authorised share capital of ₹5000 crore and paid-up share capital of ₹150 crore. The proposal is in pursuance of the Budget Announcement for 2021-22.

"With monetisation of non-core assets, the Government would be able to generate substantial revenues by monetising unused and under-used assets," said the government in a statement.

Last year, finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman announced a ₹6 lakh crore National Monetisation Pipeline (NMP). NMP estimates aggregate monetisation potential of ₹6 lakh crore through core assets of the central government over the four-year period from FY 2022 to FY 2025.

At present, CPSEs hold considerable surplus, unused and under-used non-core assets in the nature of land and buildings. For CPSEs undergoing strategic disinvestment or closure, monetisation of these surplus land and non-core assets is important to unlock their value. NLMC will undertake monetisation of these assets. This will also enable productive utilisation of these under-utilised assets to trigger private sector investments, new economic activities, boost local economy and generate financial resources for economic and social infrastructure.

"NLMC is also expected to own, hold, manage and monetise surplus land and building assets of CPSEs under closure and the surplus non-core land assets of Government owned CPSEs under strategic disinvestment," the government informed.

Gold discount in local mkt to bank rate rises to $55/oz

RAM SAHGAL @Mumbai

DEMAND for new gold jewellery purchases has taken a hit as reflected in the discount between the local rate and the bank rate (international price) widening to as much as $55 an ounce (31.10 gms) from around $14-15/oz by February end, industry sources told TNIE.

"The discount is currently $55-60 to the bank rate," said Prithviraj Kothari, MD & CEO of RiddiSiddhi Bullion. "It shows demand has slowed drastically, given the sudden surge in price. There are more sellers than buyers at these rates, leading to the discount widening."

Normally, local gold rate trades at a premium of $1-2 an oz to the bank rate. The Reserve Bank of India permits select banks and star export houses, besides canalising agencies like MMTC and HHEC, to import gold.

Generally, when gold jumps suddenly, investors and those in need of liquidity sell their old gold in the market at a discount to the prevailing rate. Fresh buying takes a pause in events resulting in a steep and sudden surge.

Gold of 99.5% purity rose 7% through ₹53,380 per 10 gm (ex GST) as of noon March 9 from February 23, a day before Russia invaded Ukraine, according to data from India Bullion & Jewellers Association (IBJA), whose rates are used to price sovereign gold bonds (SGBs).

"Such a steep rise in so short a period has obviously resulted in jewellery buyers pressing the pause button, for now," said Surendra Mehta, national secretary of IBJA.

Kumar Jain of UT Zaveri in Mumbai's famous Zaveri Bazaar gold market said customers were using recycled gold to meet marriage demand, given the recent jump in prices.

This means physical buyers melt the old gold they possess in the form of jewellery or bars and exchange the same for new jewellery for marriage demand as prices have jumped beyond their comfort level.

Gold of 99.5% purity hit a record high of ₹56,029 per 10 gm on August 7, 2020. India is the world's second-largest gold consumer, after Greater China.

Russian crude ban to have limited impact on India

RAKESH KUMAR @New Delhi

THE immediate ban on Russian oil and other energy imports by the US is going to create a supply crunch as Russia exports 4-5 million barrels of oil per day, leading to a surge in crude oil prices globally.

The ban, however, is not going to directly impact Indian supplies as it imports only 2% oil from Russia, but the rising oil price is a big concern for India as it imports 85% of its oil demand.

The Indian import basket is a blend of crude predominated by supply from West Asia.

"ONGC, Oil India, IOCL and BPCL have Russian exposure, which could be impacted with foreign operators exiting the country and dividend repatriation affected by financial sanctions. We estimate an impairment loss of up to ₹28/share for ONGC and ₹32/share for Oil India, while for IOCL and BPCL, it should be ₹8 and ₹20, respectively," said a report by Emkay Global Financial Services.

Impairment loss is recognised when the recoverable price of an asset is less than the price recorded in the books of the company.

"As of now most European countries have not joined the ban. The US currently procures a very small portion of Russian crude oil exports. Unless more countries join the ban it would have limited impact per se. However, crude prices have run up owing to many traders and refiners reducing purchases of Russian crude due to the threat of sanctions," Prashant Vasisht, Vice President and Co-Head - Corporate Ratings, ICRA Limited said.

The price of crude oil in the international market has been on boil ever since Russia started military operations in Ukraine.

The Brent Crude Future touched $139 per barrel on 7 February, the highest since 2008. But again it contracted at $124 per barrel on Wednesday.

The US President Joe Biden announced a ban on Russian oil and other energy imports and Britain said it would phase out Russian oil imports by the end of 2022.

Google to acquire Virginia-based Mandiant

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

GOOGLE has signed an agreement to acquire cybersecuity company Mandiant, based in Virginia, in an all-cash transaction valued at $5.4 billion. Upon the close of the acquisition, Mandiant will join Google Cloud. Mandiant has over 600 consultants currently. With an idea to tap the Indian market, the company last year appointed Balaji Rao as the company's country manager, India and SAARC markets.

A senior official of Mandiant had said the company is committed to scaling in India. The company wants to enable more organisations to deploy its controls-agnostics security solutions and services while expanding its growing presence in the Indian subcontinent. Combined with Google Cloud's cloud-native security offerings, the acquisition will help enterprises globally stay protected at every stage of the security lifecycle, Google said.

"Organisations around the world are facing unprecedented cybersecurity challenges as the sophistication and severity of attacks that were previously used to target major governments are now being used to target companies in every industry," said Thomas Kurian, CEO, Google Cloud.

Better.com fires over 3,000 more employees after Zoom lay-offs

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

US-based mortgage lender Better.com has reportedly laid off thousands of employees globally, including employees in India. According to employees, at least 3,000 people received severance payments.

Eric Blattberg, an employee with Better in a LinkedIn post said, "My employee Better is laying off roughly 4,000 people today, about 50% of the company….Included in the laid-off crowd are women who are pregnant and trusted Better with their stability during one of the most vulnerable times in their lives."

Vishal Garg, Indian-origin CEO of Better.com, recently fired 900 employees over a zoom call, and later apologised for the way he had handled the layoffs.

He also took time off from work and returned to his job in the second week of January. Many employees took to LinkedIn to share their experiences of the lay-off. One of the employees Amanda Bullard said her computer was just shut down in the middle of her conversation with one of her clients.

"I was one of roughly 4,000 laid off from Better today. I did not find out through our payroll system, my bank account showing a severance check, or a phone call from HR," she said.

"The residential real estate market has been changing rapidly, and our entire industry is facing a dramatic drop in origination volume due to rising interest rates…Unfortunately that means we must take the difficult step of streamlining our operations further and reducing our workforce in both the US and India in a substantial way," Kevin Ryan, CFO and Interim President, Better.com, said in a letter to employees.

Equity-oriented mutual fund schemes see higher inflows in Feb

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Mumbai

INDIAN equity investors pumped money into the stock market even as it fell 546 points or 3% in February, shows data from Association of Mutual Funds In India (AMFI).

Equity oriented schemes of mutual funds witnessed net inflows of ₹19705.27 in February, up from ₹14888 crore in the preceding month. This means DIIs purchased stocks even as FIIs sold shares worth ₹35592 crore last month.

"The DIIs are effectively absorbing what the FIIs are selling," said SK Joshi, ED, Khambatta Securities.

In the fiscal year through February, equity oriented schemes have received net inflow of ₹1.36 lakh crore, while FII outflows stood at a similar amount in the fiscal year to date (Apr-Mar 8) as per NSDL data.

FIIs have not only sold shares worth ₹1.36 lakh crore this fiscal year (FY22), they're cumulatively net short 54466 contracts Nifty and Bank Nifty futures.

India's benchmark Nifty 50 index has fallen from a record high of 18604.45 on October 19 last year to 16345.35 on March 9.

The share market which has been buffeted by fears of liquidity tightening in the US since correcting from its all-time high in October has been recently buffeted by the Russian invasion of neighbouring Ukraine.

However, benchmark indices managed to pull back for the second session running on Wednesday, with the Nifty jumping 2% or 332 points to 16345.35 and the Sensex rising 1223 points or 2.29% to 54647.33, after being massively oversold.

Asian Paints, RIL, Bajaj Finance, IndusInd Bank and Bajaj Finserv drove the rally rising between 4% and 6%.

"I think we've bottomed out with the selling climax having been reached on Monday," said Rohit Srivastava, founder, IndiaCharts. He cautions, however, that the market could witness "bouts of volatility," depending on news flows surrounding Ukraine.

Apple launches its affordable 5G smartphone

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

TECH giant Apple has launched its most affordable 5G iPhone. The new iPhone - SE 5G - comes as a big upgrade of its 2020 launched second generation iPhone SE.

The new iPhone from the stable of the world's most valuable company is available in three storage options. For the base 64GB model, the new SE is priced at $429 (roughly ₹33,200). It also comes in 128GB and 256GB storage options.

In India, the retail prices of the base SE 5G will be around ₹10,000 more than US prices at ₹43,900. The 'budget' smartphone will go on sale in the domestic market from March 18.

Analysts feel that the new phone will help Apple to increase its share in the Indian smartphone market. "While it is too early to predict, I believe Apple's market share in the domestic market will breach the 5% mark in near future. They have got an excellent line-up now with iPhone 12 and iPhone 12 mini raking in solid numbers due seasonal offers and price cuts," said a senior smartphone analyst.

According to research firm CMR, Apple registered a 48% growth in iPhone shipments in India in the calendar year 2021, and was on course to log a record 4.4 % market share for the full year. Another firm Counterpoint noted that Apple was one of the fastest growing brands in 2021 with 108% YoY growth in shipments

Ravindra Jadeja climbed to the top spot in the ICC Test rankings for all-rounders on Wednesday after his match-winning performance against Sri Lanka in the opening Test in Mohali. "Ravindra Jadeja's performance at India's recent Test win against Sri Lanka in Mohali has catapulted him to the no. 1 position in the MRF Tyres ICC Men's Test Player Rankings," the ICC said.

BAI elections: Gopichand likely to contest for secretary post

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

IT was supposed to be a routine election. It has turned out to be an intriguing one. Initially, there were rumours that a former top player and coach was showing an inclination to contest elections, and by late Wednesday there were indications that the next secretary of the Badminton Association of India (BAI) could well be him.

It is understood that national chief coach, Pullela Gopichand, threw his hat in the ring and decided to contest the elections for the post of general secretary. Though there was no official confirmation, there were indications that Gopichand had found favour among the top officials of BAI. Given his credentials as a player and a coach, support was expected. However, relieving a sitting secretary was not ideal.

On the first day, only the president had filed his nomination. The others are expected to follow suit on Thursday. The last date for filing nominations is March 11. The last date of withdrawal is March 19 and the election will be held on March 25.

The BAI had its elections four years ago in April and usually, the same set of officials are expected to continue unless there are serious differences between certain officials. In the case of BAI, Himanta Biswa Sarma, who is the chief minister of Assam, was elected the president while Ajay Singhania had taken over the post of general secretary. Former union minister Anbumani Ramadoss was elected as its treasurer. According to the Sports Code, the president has three four-year terms and the other two office bearers have two four-year terms.

On Wednesday, the BAI president flew down to hold discussions with all the stakeholders. There were discussions in Delhi until late at night. According to insiders, there will be no contest for any posts and all positions would be unanimously elected.

However, a clause in the BAI constitution specifies that outgoing office-bearers or members of the executive council only can contest for the post of secretary. According to a 2020 sports ministry circular, while renewing National Sports Federation's annual recognition, the ministry had asked almost all federations, including BAI, to align their constitution with Sports Code. And one clause that seems restrictive like the one above should be removed. Gopichand is Telangana Badminton Association general secretary.

There have been issues within the BAI of late. The appointment of foreign coaches had been taking more time than usual. There has been no clarity on the role of the chief national coach too. Though Gopichand seems to be the favourite, until he files his nomination, nothing is certain.

TALISWOMAN AT THE TOP

Having started well, India will hope Mandhana can maintain her form through the World Cup

GOMESH S @ Chennai

WHEN ICC sent out a press release during the World Cup warm-up match between India and South Africa about Smriti Mandhana getting hit on the helmet, referring to the southpaw as a 'veteran' Indian batter, it raised some eyebrows. Mandhana made her debut in 2013 and in the eight years since she has played a vital role in almost every high point of Indian cricket.

Whether it's the 2014 Wormsley Test or the 2017 ODI World Cup, where she scored well in the first half of the tournament, the century in pink-ball Test last year or being the only Indian to win the ICC Women's Cricketer of the Year twice — 2018 and 2021 — the opener's role in India's success is undeniable. Such has been her contribution that the fact that she is just 25 often goes unnoticed.

In the 2017 World Cup, Mandhana started the tournament with scores of 90 and 106 n.o before going through a string of low scores. Yet, she was among the three Indian batters to have struck at over 90 strike rate. From there, till the beginning of 2021, she was India's best batter by a distance, averaging 64.23 while striking at 92.07. And in the matches that India won during this period, she averaged 100.12. Basically, when Mandhana scores big, India win. Recalling the southpaw's early days in the team, Trupti Bhattacharya, who was the team manager during the 2017 World Cup, said that Mandhana was a welcoming change that was needed at a time when cricket was being played a bit conservatively.

"Smriti is a person who can unnerve the bowlers," Trupti told this daily. "She is one person who is absolutely bold, doesn't let the bowlers dominate. And she plays with such ease that for a long time we haven't seen one of those who could come in and change the scoreboard just like that. It was a very welcoming change to see that in the team," she added.

It's not just that Mandhana stands out in the Indian team, even on the world stage, she is among the top openers. Since her debut, only Lizelle Lee, Suzie Bates, Tammy Beaumont and Laura Wolvaardt have scored more runs than her at the top and the difference between the five is less than 500 runs. She is the second-quickest among the five after Lee. And she has registered the most 50-plus scores, 25, as an opener since her debut in ODIs. Essentially, the 25-year-old scores over 50 almost every 2.6 innings.

However, since the start of 2021, her average has gone down to 37.53 in 14 innings. And, India have won just five of the 17 ODIs they have played in this period. That they have tried four batters to partner with Mandhana and in her absence did not help their cause. Which is why, when skipper Mithali Raj often reiterate the significance of the top-order scoring runs, she isn't far off the point. Having joined the team late in New Zealand, the southpaw scored a fifty in the fifth ODI (71) and continued her good form in the World Cup with scores of 12 n.o, 66 in the warm-ups and 52 in the opening game against Pakistan. And unlike the 2017 edition, the team management would want her to score consistently throughout the tournament.

Because, as the numbers show, when Mandhana scores, India win.

Windies beat defending champs England

DUNEDIN: The West Indies edged past defending champions England by seven runs in a thrilling league-stage encounter of the ICC women's World Cup on Wednesday, leaving the tournament favourites in a spot of bother. Batting first, the West Indies women managed a mediocre 225 for 6 in 50 overs after opting to bat in their second league match. In reply, England nearly pulled through, courtesy a 61-run stand between Sophie Ecclestone (33 no) and Kate Cross (27) for the ninth wicket before being all-out for 218. Brief Scores: West Indies 225/6 in 50 overs (Campbell 66, Ecclestone 3/20) beat England 218 all out in 47.4 overs (Anisa 2/24, Connell 3/38).

INDIA VS SRI LANKA

'Influence of T20s affects Test batters'

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

DID India's recent victory over Sri Lanka within the first three days of the Mohali Test surprise you? What about England's loss to Australia in Hobart on Day 3 in January? If the answer is yes, you might have not been following the longer format close enough. In the last couple of years, Test matches have hardly lasted five days. A deeper look at the worldwide results throw up some interesting numbers.

In 2020, 12 of the 22 Test matches finished on either Day 3 or 4. Likewise, 44 matches were played the following year, and 20 were done and dusted in first four days. And if one breaks up those 20 matches, 12 and six games ended on Day 4 and 3, respectively. Interestingly, two days proved to be enough for a win twice as well. In 2022, so far, where 10 Tests have already been played, two have ended on Day 4 and four on Day 3.

Closer to home, India have been a dominant unit. They have just lost two matches at home (against Australia in 2017 and England in 2021) in the last five years. They played three Tests in 2018, winning two inside the third day with a margin of an innings and more. In 2019, they played five and won all, four of them inside Day 4 by an innings and more. A similar trend has followed in the next couple of years.

When it comes to India, pitches have played a role with spinners Ravindra Jadeja, Axar Patel and R Ashwin troubling the batters. One has to remember that Test matches in India earlier would last for five days, but it seems that the batters these days lack the required temperament. The Mohali Test is a perfect example, where Sri Lanka batters failed to deliver against spinners. It is also important to note that the Islanders have been brought up playing in similar tracks in their country, hence their display against spin does not augur well.

"Batters are not upto the mark when they play against quality bowlers. Everyday cannot be your day. You have to struggle and get the runs, which you do not see these days. The batters have to spend more time at the middle and they need to grind it out. These days, if the ball turns a lot, the batters don't know what to do. If the ball swings or bounces more, they don't know what to do," former India coach Anshuman Gaekwad told this daily.

Can we blame the players alone? Cricketers these days have been exposed to so much shorter format that playing shots come naturally to them. There is less of Test cricket compared to the shorter format.

"Batters are trying to attack all the time. So in the bargain, they are losing their wickets. They are playing too many shots and the shot selection is not good. It is the influence of the shorter format – tell me where do you see a double or triple hundred these days in Test cricket or someone has batted for two days or so?," added Gaekwad.

Come India's second Test against Sri Lanka in Bengaluru, starting Saturday, how many days will it last - three or four or five? Take your pick.

Mankading not unfair play: MCC amends law

AGENCIES @ London

THE Marylebone Cricket Club (MCC) has decided to move the law relating to run-outs at non-striker's end from "unfair play" section besides completely banning the use of saliva to shine the ball in amendments to its 2022 code that will come into effect in October.

Run-outs at non-striker's end when batters back up too far often triggered heated debates on spirit of the game and several players like Indian off-spinner Ravichandran Ashwin have advocated for it as a fair mode of dismissal.

"Law 41.16 ' running out the non-striker ' has been moved from Law 41 (Unfair play) to Law 38 (Run out). The wording of the Law remains the same," the MCC said in a media statement late on Tuesday.

The MCC also said that using saliva to shine the ball would be treated as an unfair practice. Saliva application was barred by the world body in view of the Covid-19 pandemic and MCC said its research found that applying saliva had no impact on the ball's movement.

Another key rule change is that when a batter is out caught, the "new batter shall come in at the end the striker was at, i.e. to face the next ball (unless it is the end of an over)."

The changes in the code, which first came into existence in 2017, were suggested by MCC Laws sub-committee "which were subsequently approved at the Club's Main Committee meeting last week."

The recent amendments will not come into force until October. "…the 2022 Code makes some rather bigger changes, from the way we talk about cricket to the way it's played," Fraser Stewart, MCC Laws Manager, said.

Sreesanth calls time on domestic career

MARTIN JOSEPH @ Kochi

IF one asks Shanthakumaran Sreesanth what his legacy as a cricketer should be, and the World Cup winner, who has had a tumultuous career, would want the public to remember him as a 'fighter'. On Wednesday, the veteran Kerala cricketer announced he was going to stop playing domestic cricket as he made the announcement on social media.

"With much sadness but without regret, I say this with a heavy heart: I am retiring from the Indian domestic (first class and all formats) cricket. For the next generation of cricketers. I have chosen to end my first-class cricket career," he wrote on Twitter.

Sreesanth finishes his domestic career with 213 wickets in 74 first-class games while making 92 appearances and taking 124 wickets in List-A cricket.

"I achieved something every cricketer dreams of by winning two World Cups and playing the game at the highest level. There was also a challenging phase (Sreesanth's ban from cricket) but when I made the comeback (to domestic cricket), I just wanted to give everyone the message of never to give up. Keep fighting and try to write your own story rather than what others want to say about you. I felt it was finally time as I wanted to make way for the cricketers who were coming through," Sreesanth told this daily.

He created headlines for all the wrong reasons when was caught up in a spot-fixing scandal in 2013. Sreesanth was initially handed a lifetime ban by the BCCI which was lifted in 2020.

Reds survive, Bayern dazzle

Liverpool survived a scare while German giants reaffirmed their title credentials. A look at Tuesday's Champions League results...

REDS THROUGH, JUST

Some of Liverpool's biggest hitters had a rare night off and it reflected. They engineered chances but the big boys left their scoring boots at home. The end result was Inter Milan coming oh so close to taking the tie to extra time. Jurgen Klopp will know the team cannot have off days like this in the future if they are to compete for the Champions League.

SEVEN-STAR BAVARIANS

This is just what Bayern Munich do in Europe. Against a decent side, they ran up a tennis score and look in good touch to win their second title in the last three seasons. What makes them so potent is there are multiple goalscorers all across the pitch. It also helps they have Robert Lewandowski who scored the hat-trick.

Lovlina, Nikhat set for Worlds affair after winning domestic trials

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

IN a much-anticipated fight between Lovlina Borgohain and Arundhati Choudhary, the former displayed her class to prevail in the final of the national selection trials, thereby booking a ticket for the upcoming IBA Women's World Championships.

The Assam pugilist (70kg) was fighting in a competitive environment for the first time since returning home after her bronze medal effort during the Tokyo Olympics last year. In the final bout of the selection trials, where top-four national boxers from each weight category fought, Lovlina knew she had a tricky test in Arundhati, the reigning youth world champ and national champion. What Arundhati lacked was experience and Lovlina used that against her to get the votes from all the seven officials (5 judges, 2 selection panel officials) present by the ringside.

"Lovlina used her experience and her long reach to keep Arundhati at bay," women's national chief coach Bhaskar Bhatt, who witnessed the fight at the IG Stadium in New Delhi, told this daily. As the trials for Asiad in 69kg will be held again (March 11-14), the duo could trade punches again.

While Lovlina got a step closer to possibly winning her third medal in the world event, Simranjit Kaur — 2018 Worlds bronze medallist and Tokyo Olympian — was stunned by Jaismine Lamboriya in the 60kg final. Jaismine, the Asian Championships bronze medallist, won by a split verdict (5-2). "Jasmine kept her distance and kept stealing points. She did really well," Bhatt assessed. The win also means that Jaismine will be going to the Asian Games apart from Worlds.

In-form Nikhat Zareen (52kg) had no problems defeating Minakshi of Haryana by 7-0 verdict. With MC Mary Kom taking a back seat this time, Nikhat, who recently won the Strandja Memorial Tournament, will be determined to cash in on her good form.

Manisha Moun (57kg), Saweety Boora (75kg) and Olympian Pooja Rani were other boxers to secure a ticket for Worlds. The women's World Championships is scheduled in Istanbul from May 6-21. The Asian Games will be held in Hangzhou, China from September 10 to 25.

'Don't want Delhi to be our saviour, we only seek fairness'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

We are not expecting Delhi to be our saviour. What we want is fairness, predictability and a good partnership that allows for independent decision-making, said Tamil Nadu Finance Minister Palanivel Thiaga Rajan during a discussion session with Montek Singh Ahluwalia, former Planning Commission chairman.

The session was moderated by Prabhu Chawla, Editorial Director, The New Indian Express, at the 10th ThinkEdu Conclave in Chennai on Wednesday.

Talking about the disparity between developed and backward States in devolution of funds, the FM accepted that it was the norm in most countries with a federal set-up. However, in India, the transfer of wealth from richer to poorer States has not helped close the inequality gap but has only widened it, he said. "Successive finance commissions have reduced funds to States like Tamil Nadu. From China to the US to Europe, such transfers have narrowed the inequality gap or stabilised it. But when the gap keeps widening at an accelerated rate, it raises questions about where the resources are invested and what is being done wrong in certain States," he said.

"This system has been an utter failure. The Tamil Nadu government doesn't consider providing laptops, uniforms, free food to students as freebies, instead it considers them as an investment on human resources," the minister further said. When questioned why the State is lagging behind in the ease of doing business index, Thiaga Rajan acknowledged that improvement is required and red tapism should be done away with. "After the DMK government took over, we have set up a task force which will not only concentrate on multinational companies, but also MSMEs," he said.

Elaborating on the artificial constraints imposed on developed States like Tamil Nadu, he said the State is spending ₹6,000 to ₹8,000 crore less in capital infrastructure due to artificial constraints created by the Centre. "The borrowing limit based on various Acts is 4.5 per cent of the Central Statistical Organisation's (CSO) estimate of Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP). This is then revised mid-year. However, the borrowing limit is set at ₹6,000-₹8,000 crore lower from what the CSO says is 4.5 per cent of Tamil Nadu's GSDP," Thiaga Rajan said. It is because when they add the GSDPs of all the States, it is about 5 per cent higher than the national GDP. "Therefore, to set the total borrowing of all States into some number that the rating agencies would like, they cut our borrowing limits down. Due to this, all the States combined, we are investing ₹50,000 crore less in capital investment," he said.

When asked why the Tamil Nadu economy is in line with other States, Ahluwalia said that an industrialised, urbanised and globalised State like Tamil Nadu can lead the country.

Advocating that banking should be moved out of the public sector, Ahluwalia said that India is the only country in the world where 70 per cent banking is handled by the public sector. "The public sector does not give managers the trust and flexibility to handle risky decisions," he said.

Covid-19 exacerbated health staff crunch, says Shailaja

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

THE country is reeling under a shortage of medical staff – a long-standing issue that was exacerbated by the Covid-19 pandemic, said former Kerala health minister KK Shailaja on Wednesday.

In conversation with Dr Devi Shetty, the Chairman of Narayana Health, on 'The Right Prescription: Why We Need More Doctors', Shailaja said, "Although the public health system in Kerala is strong, the doctor-to-patient and the nurse-to-patient ratio are still insufficient. The norm is that for every 1,000 people, there should be one doctor, but in India, there is one doctor for 1,511 patients, even going by registration data." Also, where there should be one nurse for every 300 patients, it is one nurse for 670 patients, she added.

"This is already insufficient during normal times, but with a pandemic, it becomes much more difficult to tackle. We were also short of nurses then (the pandemic). We will not be able to suddenly appoint so many of them during the pandemic, or in the event of natural calamities," said the former minister who has been being instrumental in Kerala's fight against Covid-19.

Mentioning India as needing 10 lakh more doctors to meet the world average, Shailaja opined for an improvement in the government's expenditure on health. Echoing the ex-minister's views, Devi Shetty said, "If we want to plan how many more doctors we might need, we have to know how many are currently practising."

Hijab row is a conspiracy: KL Guv

Calling hijab integral to Islam is a disservice to working Muslim women, says Khan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

If you look at civilisations around the world, each was defined either by race or language or religion, particularly in the medieval times. This results in exclusion of minorities. In India, however, the defining parameter, right from the beginning, has neither been race nor language nor faith, possibly because there was diversity in all these areas

Arif Mohammed Khan, Kerala Governor, while speaking at ThinkEdu Conclave on Wednesday

PIC: R SATISH BABU

Saying that the hijab is essential to Islam is an attempt to push Muslim women back into their homes, said Kerala Governor Arif Mohammed Khan.

Speaking on the topic, 'Education: Victim of Identities', at the ThinkEdu conclave organised by TNIE on Wednesday, he said that Muslim women have broken through the glass ceiling in many professions and have gone on to even join security forces. To say that the hijab is intrinsic to Islam would be a disservice to them as it would make them feel guilty of not following an essential tenet of their faith, he added.

Referring to the recent hijab controversy in Karnataka, he said educational institutions may prescribe their own dress code, as has been done for a long time. "I am of the view that this is no controversy, this is a conspiracy," he said, adding that such conspiracies are aimed at reducing the interest of Muslim women in education and limit their career prospects. Referring to the Rajiv Gandhi government's reversing of the Shah Bano judgment in 1986, he said that a certain section, which is spearheading the hijab row, is unnerved as they can't enjoy the same clout with the present government. With the passing of the triple talaq bill in the Parliament in 2019, radical changes, including a decline in divorce rates by 90 per cent, have been brought into the Muslim community.

On the inclusivity of the Indian culture, he said: "If you look at civilisations around the world, each was defined either by race or language or religion, particularly in the medieval times. This results in exclusion of minorities." In India, however, the defining parameter, right from the beginning, has neither been race nor language nor faith, possibly because there was diversity in all these areas, he added.

Khan said the Indian culture is defined by Atma, which does not exclude even animals or trees. "The rishis and saints here viewed diversity as the law of nature. Diversity can itself become a source of strength and people should not be confined to one single interpretation of reality," he added. Touching upon the National Education Policy (NEP), he said the policy seeks to transform India's education institutions into places that promote Indian knowledge tradition.

About the Kerala Governor, Prabhu Chawla, Editorial Director, TNIE, said: "He believes in unity in diversity. He is not a confrontationist governor but a persuasionist governor. He is also a scholar. For him, conviction is not a matter of convenience."

'Achieving full potential in education & health major challenges for country'

Dr Anantha Nageswaran participating in ThinkEdu Conclave | ASHWIN PRASATH

The challenges Covid-19 left behind in education sector, especially those arising out of school closure and digital learning, need to be addressed to cushion their impact on the medium to long-term growth of the country, said Chief Economic Advisor to the Government of India, V Anantha Nageswaran. He was speaking with author and Vice President, Observer Research Foundation, Gautam Chikermane at ThinkEdu Conclave organised by TNIE on Wednesday.

In the session, 'Rhetoric and Reality: The Education Spend', he said the biggest challenge in the medium term is to achieve full potential in education and health. There will, however, be a way forward if the government can take care of health management and bridge the learning gap caused by school closure, he said.

To Gautam's question whether crisis management has become the new normal and whether one must try to design policies around it, Nageswaran said there needs to be a long-term vision for the economy. "We need to be alert to take advantage (of opportunities) at both economic and personal levels. Thinking processes that have evolved over time will also take time to be discarded. That is a bigger change than policy-making." On the repealing of the three farm laws and increasing agricultural productivity, Nageswaran said the farm laws were only one element in the efforts to increase agricultural productivity.

NEET favours only private colleges, says Manish Tewari

The 20,000 Indian students in Ukraine should have been evacuated before they were scrambling for their lives. The Ukraine war is a tragedy beyond comparison and an aggression by Russia on a people who didn't deserve it, said Member of Parliament (MP) Manish Tewari. He was in conversation with author and senior journalist Kaveree Bamzai on the topic, 'The World Post Ukraine and What is Next for India's Students', at the ThinkEdu conclave organised by TNIE on Wednesday.

"The National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) is deeply flawed and favours only private colleges. There were only 80,000 seats across the country in 2021 and around eight lakh aspirants qualified it. When you have close to eight lakh aspirants competing for 80,000 seats, you create a pool of students willing to pay enormous amounts as fee to get into private medical colleges. And those who can't afford these seats head to Ukraine, Russia, Kazakhstan, and Kyrgyzstan," Manish said, adding that ever since NEET was introduced, private medical college fees went up by 600 per cent.

What's more, students who returned from Ukraine might eventually have to go back at one point of time as there is no space here, he said.

Apart from the political-economic aspects of colonisation, there is also the dimension of cultural subjugation that makes colonies believe that their language, epistemology, history, traditional education, and belief systems are inferior to those of the colonisers, said historian and author Vikram Sampath.

"How long this will last depends on the political and historical factors, but reclaiming our identity and the decolonisation of the Indian mind is a work in progress. Decoloniality is not a discourse against someone but is looking within your own systems and getting back to your roots," he said while speaking on the topic, 'An Epic Idea: Decolonising the Indian Mind', along with Rajeev Gowda, spokesperson of the Indian National Congress, at the ThinkEdu conclave organised by TNIE on Wednesday.

Colonisers make you feel as if they have a natural right to rule over you and history is used by colonisers as an important tool, he added. "Even some sections of educated Indians are subliminally made to believe that India is an artificial product stitched together by the British. Even today, without any malice or political prejudices, a section of Indians believe that it was the British who gave us a sense of a nation and that we were just fighting with one another before their arrival."

Speaking on the topic, Rajeev Gowda said, "Colonisation is also about feelings of inferiority – limitations in their minds that come in the way of their aspirations." To decolonise the mind, one has to offer an alternative view of how the country should look like. "We have to focus on the future: How do we create a modern India that is on a par with the best in the world. We have to focus on how far we've come from the poverty that we found ourselves in 1947," Gowda said, adding that inclusivity was key in the process. The Congress was instrumental in the introduction of several reforms towards this end, including the Panchayati Raj, he said.

At a time when digital learning was taking baby steps, the Covid-19 pandemic suddenly made it the order of the day, said Anil D Sahasrabudhe, Chairman of the All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) on Wednesday. Despite various challenges, including lack of connectivity, affordable devices, and data charges, digital learning can help the country achieve the 50 per cent Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER) aimed for by the National Education Policy (NEP), he added.

During a session on 'Learning Online: Crossing the Digital Divide' with senior journalist Kaveree Bamzai, Sahasrabudhe said, "From 0.7 per cent during Independence, it (GER) has risen to 27 per cent. With conventional teaching methods, it will take at least 50 years to increase it to 50 per cent; this is where digital learning can help. Apart from being affordable, online teaching will also make teachers become better."

While mentioning the government as already taking steps to bridge the gap by providing broadband connection to 2.5 lakh villages, he pointed out that the services should be expanded.

On remodelling AICTE to digital learning, Sahasrabudhe said that they were offering online courses before the pandemic itself. "There is also the National Education Alliance for Technology (NEAT) which was started two to three years ago. Through three levels of verification, we also buy various products from education technology companies without negotiating on the cost," he said. Pavan Allena of Metamorphosis Edu, who was on the panel, said that the pandemic changed the notion that entrepreneurship can be taught only in person.

Pulkit Jain of Vedantu said that children require motivation, in addition to being given content. He enquired with Sahasrabudhe of possibilities wherein the government, NGOs and private players can create an ecosystem to teach children instead of just propagating content. Phalgun Kompalli of UpGrad also enquired of a partnership. Sahasrabudhe replied that the National Educational Technology Forum is working towards facilitating it.

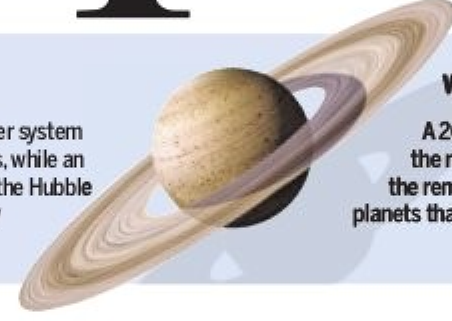
Uranus rings

On this day in 1977, astronomers on board the Kuiper Airborne Observatory, a modified C-141 jet, discovered the rings of Uranus

THE TWO KINDS

Uranus has two sets. The inner system consists of narrow, dark rings, while an outer system, discovered by the Hubble Space Telescope, are brightly coloured: one red, one blue



WHERE ARE YOU FROM

A 2016 study suggested that the rings of the planet may be the remnants of Pluto-like dwarf planets that strayed too close to the giant worlds long ago

EXPLORATION

Only one spacecraft has visited Uranus. After travelling more than 1.8 billion miles in nine years, NASA's Voyager 2 gathered critical information

Exhausted, scarred and uncertain about their future, students of Ukrainian universities from Bengaluru, Chennai and Hyderabad recount stories of struggle, scarcity and shelling that marked their journey back from the war-torn nation

AT THE END OF THE EXODUS

SAHANA IYER, SANATH PRASAD, SHREYA VERONICA

The clock struck 1 am as second-year medical student Abishek Shanmugam shut his books on Feb 24 in Poltava. With alarms set for 6 am, he slept peacefully, oblivious to the looming devastation. But even before his alarm could ring, the 50 missed calls from his parents and friends jolted him out of his slumber. Russia had unleashed a full-scale military invasion in Ukraine and life in the country turned on its head overnight.

Across the country, in the western city of Uzhgorod, student Helan Cynthia awoke to the catastrophic news from her family. Though away from the action, she was not excluded from its consequences. Grocery stores saw hordes of people and empty shelves, digital payment was rendered useless, and ATMs were hidden behind hour-long queues. With whatever groceries they could manage to gather, Helan and Abishek returned home to the deafening air sirens and chaos. Their cities were not under attack but the clock was ticking and they needed to escape.

HARD TIMES, HARD DECISIONS

GROUND REALITY

Thrown in the belly of the beast, fate was not as kind to Radhika*, a third-year medical student from Kharkiv. A loud shelling that turned a few kilometres around her into rubbles, woke her up at 4.30 am. Danger had knocked at her door, but there was no time to panic. To be rushed to the bunkers was not an uncommon concept in this city at the time, but they did not expect the life they would live in the coming week — one with almost no food or water, and even basic sanitation. "We stayed in our bunker for at least 10 days. At first, we would go down only when sirens were rung but when war was declared, we stayed put. We had a few chapatis and snacks that we shared with each other. But as days passed, resources depleted and we had no electricity. We even shared one bathroom among 350 people there. The worst sufferers were those on their periods, who had to succumb to using torn off blankets in the absence of sanitary products," she recalls. Soon hunger became unbearable. That's when a group of seniors — including Radhika — took charge, and the fatal risk, of going to the hostel and cooking meals for the rest. Just as they were on their mission, another shelling shook the group of students as a part of the kitchen was also destroyed. "Thankfully, my friend had moved the induction across the room and we narrowly escaped," she says, quivering. In the same city lived Bengaluru's 18-year-old Jay Karthika. After barely spending a few months in the country, all that the Kharkiv National Medical University student has brought back home are traumatic memories. "We stayed in the bunker for 10 days. Whenever we used to hear explosions, we would run to the bunker. Water supply was cut off by the Ukrainian government and we had to manage with a few sips a day," she recounts.

As Radhika and Karthika braved their dreadful reality, several others like Abishek and Helan began their arduous journey to the borders. People of all nationalities and ages were seeking a way out, causing an impenetrable sea on the roads. It was as if bad news was around every turn of the road. Like the one 18-year-old Nabihah Huda met with after fighting crawling traffic for hours from Kyiv to Chernivtsi. "Ahead of reaching the airport in Kyiv, we learned that Russia had blasted the air space. We had to return to Chernivtsi, through the sluggish traffic. A journey that should have taken 10 hours turned into a 30-hour one," she says. For Abishek, the move out came with a moral dilemma. As someone who had given his information to the embassy, he patiently waited for a response. But when things got serious, his friends convinced him to board a bus and thankfully so, because the very next day, Russian tanks were spotted on city borders. With 60 people split onto two buses, they may have made progress, but rest was from possible that night. "Even on the bus, we were not comfortable. We drove 18 hours in the cold. We kept looking out of our windows, sitting with the driver, ready to run out if we had to. We allowed ourselves a moment of relief when we saw the sunrise," he informs.

Risk became a common factor for students coming in from every corner of the country. With high demand for all transportation, one had to fight to find their seat on board. Desharaju Sai Anirudh of Zaporizhzhya State Medical University fortunately did not face much trouble initially. "The airport was shut and we were unsure of getting home. About 1,500 students had to take the train. A 12-hour journey stretched to a miserable 30 hours. But, if we chose the road instead, there was no hope for safety as there were frequent sirens everywhere," he shares.

> My parents were worried if I would ever return alive to Bengaluru. Anytime I hear a loud noise now, I feel like running to the bunker. The trauma I am going through is very intense — Jay Karthika

THE FINAL STRETCH

Their bodies not supporting them anymore, sleep resting heavy on their eyes, and danger awaiting them every minute, students finally made their way to the borders. But their journey was far from over. There were four borders that were available to Indian citizens — Poland, Romania, Slovakia and Hungary — and each of them presented its own challenges. Belagavi resident Shreyas Patil awaited the crossing outside the Romanian borders for 13 hours. "We were up against -5 degrees Celsius weather when we crossed the border by foot. Moreover, Indians were given secondary treatment and the Ukrainian army opened fire in the air when some tried to sneak across," he claims.

"They were giving priority to their citizens so we got a seat only when they were done boarding. In this process, many men with us were also beaten. I understand their viewpoint but the situation could have been handled better," Radhika observes. Where some were facing the violent consequences of scarcity, others seemed to encounter better outcomes. After a whole day of travel, Abishek's bus placed itself behind a six-hour-long queue but was extradited to the border immediately by Ukrainian authorities as a priority group for evacuation.

While these last-minute plans may have offered no room for error, the situation did not seem much better for those who planned ahead. Bobby Mayank Sharma (23) of Hyderabad pressed the panic button as early as Feb 15. As the students of Zaporizhzhya State Medical University saw their American, English and Nigerian classmates getting help from their embassies, they lay in wait for any update from ours.

"We tried to get in touch with the embassy. The university had given no notice either. On Feb 19, the embassy sent a notice stating that Indian students were to leave regardless of the college announcements. From then, we struggled a lot. I took care of 40 students and started self-evacuation," he informs. With no help, the students crossed over to Budapest.

At such a young age, these students displayed incredible bravery and command. But they weren't the only ones saving lives. Dr B Divya S Raj Reddy, an educator at the same university, involuntarily became the in-charge of 1,500 students who had to be evacuated. "We had to accommodate all the students on the same train. Everything was going well but the train could fit only 1,000. We had to travel for 20 hours, people were having panic attacks, and there was even a nine-month pregnant woman with us," she explains.

Finally, they all reached the finishing line that came into sight after strenuous days, if not weeks. Safety was just a step away. But first, they had to find themselves a flight and until they did, they huddled in shelters — hostels, hotels, IT companies, and closed football stadiums. For some like Radhika, this was the first morsel of food they would taste in over one week's time. Luck played its role here. While some were homebound on the same day, the others halted at shelters a few days longer. From Poland, Romania, Hungary and Slovakia, students flew their way to Delhi, Ghaziabad and Mumbai and finally to Chennai, Hyderabad and Bengaluru. Sighs of relief and teary eyes — they were finally back home, back into the arms of their loved ones who were pacing anxiously at the airports.

ALL'S WELL?

Deaths, shelling, hunger, thirst, and fatigue haunt you beyond the borders of warring nations. The past few weeks have forced these students to look at life with a new perspective. Trauma continues to reign supreme. "My parents were worried, if I would ever return alive. Anytime I hear a loud noise now, I feel like running to the bunker. The trauma I am going through is very intense," confesses Karthika, who has witnessed the death of a senior and crept into depression. And how could a parent not share the pain of a child, watching the gut-wrenching news like that of the death of Karnataka boy Naveen Shekharappa Gyanagoudar, in a shelling when he merely went to purchase food for his friends? "My mother called me every 10 minutes and was glued to the news. The woman who never saw the news was watching it 24x7," Cynthia says.

Some are marred by survivor's guilt. Cynthia had left behind her neighbours, a 28-year-old woman with twin toddlers and a landlord, who she has deemed "very lovable". "They were so happy to see me leave. They were glad that I would be safe in India. There are small kids involved. They can't move anywhere. We are safe because of our embassy but where would they go?" she questions. For Abishek, who is still in touch with his friends in the subways, the travel became bittersweet. "I was completely blank; just so exhausted. I had friends caught in the subways of Kharkiv and Kyiv. We had escaped but they were still there. I tried to contact them but I didn't feel good saying that I had left. How would they feel?" he says.

The safety of a home offers no comfort either, Radhika finds, "I am safe at home. I have clothes and food and there are no bomb blasts or such sounds, but I can't sleep or eat well. I am more scared than confused. I still shiver at the thought of a bomb blast. There are many still to return and now, there is a lot more to sort out in our lives as well. What's next for us?"

WHERE TO NOW?

Now, the futures of approximately 18,000 Indian students in Ukraine hang in the balance. Radhika was to give her KROK exams (licensing tests) this year. Failing which, she may have to repeat a year. In fact, for Cynthia and her, these exams forced them to stay back in the country. But one day changed everything. "We all came here with our ambitions. Many of us have taken out loans; mortgaged our homes. Being a doctor is my childhood dream. I wrote NEET as well but only got passing marks. And my syllabus (in Ukraine) was not as intensive as NEET. We had our KROK coming up and now, we don't know what awaits us. Will our college accept us?" Cynthia asks.

As judgements and vile assumptions continue to come in from all quarters, there are many a reason that students stayed put in Ukraine at the cusp of a war. "We didn't get information to evacuate. When we were asked to leave, plane tickets cost as much as ₹75,000-₹1 lakh. People think we are rich, but in actuality, there are students who stay here for all six years of their education because they can't afford to take a trip home. And then there's the KROK exam. I didn't pay fees for one year and am lagging two years. Missing this exam would have cost me another year. We didn't know when we would come back and what would happen with our education," shares Radhika. They may be safe at home, but what awaits these students, one does not know.

ARCHANA KOTTIGE:

‘DEAR SATHYA GAVE PERFECT HEADSTART TO MY ACTING CAREER’

A SHARADHAA

ARCHANA Kottige is all praise for her upcoming film Dear Sathya. She says the film was a perfect start to her acting career. “Dear Sathya gave a perfect start to my acting career. I have been to many auditions, but Dear Sathya is the first film for which I gave a screen test and got selected,” says Archana. There’s been no turning back for Archana. She has so far signed in for 17 films.

Dear Sathya, set to release this week, is based on real incidents. Archana will be seen alongside lead actor Aryan Santhosh in this Shiva Ganesh’s directorial venture. “I got to play a good role. For someone, who never went to acting school nor has a learning experience, Dear Sathya was a good experience. The film helped me to learn about facing the light, the film angles, and close-up shots, dialogue delivery, and even the art of smiling for the camera,” says Archana

The actor says that it’s been a long wait for her to see Dear Sathya on the silver screen. “I worked on this film two-and-a-half years ago. In the meantime, I have changed as a person. So, whatever performance they get to watch in this film will be from my formative acting days,” Archana says.

Recalling her experience shooting for the film, she says, “ I was signed in for Dear Sathya a day before the project went on floors. We first shot for the climax episodes. I still remember how nervous I was and kept questioning myself about my capabilities. I felt the pressure while shooting certain episodes. So, I am anxious as the release date is approaching and I am curious to know the response,” she says.

Archana, who is currently juggling between the sets of Elra Kaleliyathe Kaala, Shabari, and Alankar Vidyarthi, says she at present is not keen on signing in for many projects.

Dear Sathya is finally hitting theatres on March 10

The director has also penned the story, screenplay, and dialogues for the film. According to the debutant director, the film has a unique cast as it comprises all theatre actors. “Anjan Nagendra and Ashwitha Hegde will play the lead roles. Rohit Kumar, Deepak Rai Panaji, and Sandhya Ninasam will be seen in supporting roles.”

Talking about the title of the film, he says, “Kamblihula is a Caterpillar, which is the teenage stage of a butterfly. The story of our film is based on a teenage love story and hence we chose the title.” Kamblihula, set in the Malnad region, has music by director Shivaprasad. The film, backed by Grey Square Studios, is now in the post-production stage. The film will hit theatres in July.

A still from the film Harisha Vayassu 36

HARISHA Vayassu 36, directed by Gururaj Jyeshta and starring Yogish Shetty, Shwetha Arehole, and Rohini Jagaram, is ready to hit theatres across Karnataka on March 11.

One of the highlights of the film is the title track sung by Puneeth Rajkumar. Speaking to CE, director Gururaj said that Harisha Vayassu 36 is about a jobless 36-year-old person who is confident about finding a good match. “I’m closely related to such people, and the film is inspired by their lives,” says Gururaj, who has come up with a comedy-drama.

The film dialogues are in the Mangaluru Kannada dialect. Except for senior actor Umesh, the film produced by the Shridi Sai Balaji Films, mostly consists of fresh faces. The film has director Gururaj doubling up as the film’s music director.

MY MISSION IS TO HELP WOMEN ACHIEVE THEIR DREAMS: MADHULIKA APPASANI

MADHULIKA APPASANI

Madhulika is India's leading productivity expert for mompreneurs. During the course of her career, she has helped thousands of high-achieving mothers explore their productivity, and find their passion.

Q. What was your mission at the outset?

A. What was your mission at the outset? I'm on a mission to help 1,00,000 women achieve their dreams lives and live a fulfilled life. In a society where we women are expected to be primary care givers to our children, I wish for young moms to rather CHOOSE to spend quality time with their family instead of feeling burnt out. And I believe that'll automatically happen when women are truly happy with themselves and fulfil their dreams first! In my opinion, we as a generation are moving away from 'kids OR work' to 'kids AND work' era.

Q. We are aware of your contribution to the ecosystem, talk us through your journey.

A. My journey into being a life coach was quite accidental. As a client, I had been associated with the coaching profession since 2017 but it was during my maternity break that I realized a shift in my priorities. After evaluating my options, I decided to pursue Life Coaching Certification in January 2019. I found the work beneficial and complementing the lifestyle I aspired to. As a new mother, I focused on the need of the hour and now I specialize in 'Productivity for moms of young children'.

Q. What made you passionate about 'Coaching'?

A. Honestly, the transformation I've seen in myself! Right from handling negative thoughts, to communicating better to taking consistent action; my personal journey has been an eye-opener. I believe if someone is ambitious and a high achiever, with a little guidance they can climb huge mountains.

Q. How do you manage to keep going despite the challenges? What drives you?

A. Over time, I've stopped viewing everything as a challenge. To grow, we need to go through the daily hurdles. The larger the vision, the simpler the hurdle.

Q. To Whom do you attribute your success?

A. My family is my backbone. Thanks to my family and a good support system home, I'm able to serve many more with my work.

Q. You are always positive and motivated, what keeps you going?

A. I honour my feelings and give myself some time to acknowledge and accept the way I feel. Next, I accept what I can change and what I can't. This helps me stay grounded. I train my mind to be positive. My motivation is, "A Happy Mood is a Productive Mind".

Q. In your opinion what is the key to success?

A. Success means 'balancing all the priorities and living a fulfilled living while doing impactful work'. The key is the courage to dream big while being grateful for what you have.

Q. What advice would you give women who want to balance their passion and family?

A. Believe that you can do it – even if no one believes in you. Belief is where it starts. Mountains can be moved with this belief!

YOU DESERVE TO BE LOVED BY YOURSELF: REECHA

Reecha Agarwal Goyal, an MBA from Loyola Institute of Business Administration, Chennai, has four published books to her credit. She started writing professionally after one of her blogs went crazily viral on social media. Her first book – 'Such is Her Life' – a direct hit on patriarchy - was an instant hit and has received rave reviews from readers.

REECHA

Q. What makes you a strong writer?

A The most important skill that makes me a good writer is my ability to feel and connect deeply. You don't fill a book merely with words. You load it with emotions. And the readers will connect with the emotions only when they are genuine.

Q. As a child, what did you want to do when you grew up?

I never clearly knew my professional goals when I was a child. But I always knew what I wanted to do when I grew up; I wanted to make a difference - make this world a better place to live, to do my bit. And, I am glad I have been able to do that, albeit to a small degree. I have been actively working towards women empowerment and speaking for their rights through my books.

Q. When did you first realize you wanted to be a writer?

A. I think I was always bitten by the writing bug. I can never pinpoint a particular year or month or even a day when I was hit by the realization. The magical world of books and words has always excited me. As it happened, one day, I switched on my laptop and decided to take my passion to the next level.

Q. The protagonists in all your books are women. Any special reason for that?

A. It's high time women get to lead. On a serious note, I feel it's possible to add depth and nuances to women characters. They are also capable of various emotions. And I love highlighting them.

Q. Any message for our readers on this women's international day?

A. Love yourselves, stand up for yourselves & believe in yourselves. The world will always be waiting for an opportunity to pull you down, to judge you, to make you feel worthless. Make sure, you at least have 'YOU' with yourself. You deserve at least that, don't you?

SONIA SHARMA IS ONE OF THE MOST INFLUENTIAL TECHNOPRENEURS

SONIA SHARMA

Sonia Sharma is the co-founder of GoodWorks group of companies. Under her leadership, GoodWorkLabs won the 3rd Fastest Growing Tech Company Award by Financial Times 2018 and the 5th Fastest Growing Company Award by Deloitte Fast 50 in 2016.

Q. What was your key driving force to become an entrepreneur?

A. I am a creator and I like to solve problems. The innate need of creating things which could uplift lives made me an entrepreneur. I always wanted to be one.

Q. What is your greatest fear, and how do you manage fear?

A. I would not say fear, but one has to be very cautious not to become irrelevant. The skills one possesses or the solutions/services companies offer might become outdated faster than one realises. We need to introspect and research to make sure that we upgrade constantly.

Q. Do you believe there is some sort of pattern or formula to becoming a successful entrepreneur?

A. The ability to identify problems which are worth solving and the ability to come up with a financially viable solution which indeed is solving the problem are two very important skills.

Q. What is your favourite aspect of being an entrepreneur?

A. My favourite aspect of being an entrepreneur is the satisfaction which I draw from the fact that products made by us are uplifting, impacting and touching tens of millions of lives all around the world.

Q. Who has been your greatest inspiration?

A. I admire Dr Devi Shetty for making heart surgery affordable to millions of Indians. I like Elonk Musk for his ability to take moonshots. I admire Falguni Nayar for smashing multiple stereotypes at once. While Nithin and Nikhil Kamat showed us that bootstrapped companies could become unicorns too.

THE AUTHOR AND COUNSELOR NEHAL VRK HAS BEEN WORKING AS A PHILANTHROPIST SINCE 2003. SHE IS THE WRITER OF THREE PARENTING BOOKS AND IS NOW SWITCHING TO CHILD & PARENTS PSYCHOLOGY COUNSELLING.

NEHAL

Q:1. What led you to pursue a career in psychology counselling?

A: I managed to train hundreds of children in different arts and studies in the past 20 years, and helped them in being responsible and capable. In this period, I acquired ample experience about children's psychology and how to motivate, and encourage children in deriving an outstanding 'Goal' for their lives. Being a writer, I have worked on mental illnesses, and I have a strong urge to make people aware of these conditions. While writing the books I got motivated to pursue a counselling career so that I can help people solve life issues.

Q 2 What qualities do you possess that, in your belief, make you a good counsellor?

A: I have been an empath and a very caring person throughout my life. A non-judgmental attitude and emotional intelligence are always needed in a counselling career. I feel my traits like listening with patience, acknowledging others' feelings, making people feel better, help me become a good counsellor.

Q 3 Despite getting their whole schooling in a rural area, both of your children are in IIT Bombay and IIT Delhi, how did you manage this? What would you advise parents about this?

A: I believe whatever a child achieves in their life is a blend of parenting and the child's ability. As a parent, my prominent trait is that I always prioritize my children's emotional needs. I never left them alone and unattended. If we take care of our child's psychological, emotional, and social needs they will definitely groom into better human beings and will achieve their goals.
